

CIA 'Clean' In Beret Case, Newsmen Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is given a clean bill in the Green Beret mystery story in the newest version of the case told by sources identified as CIA officials.

Defense lawyers for the eight U. S. Special Forces men held by the Army in South Vietnam for investigation on charges that they murdered a Vietnamese have alleged that the CIA was involved.

Attorney George W. Greer said the alleged murder victim was a Communist double agent hired by the CIA. Some Saigon sources said CIA ordered him killed after films caught him talking with North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Now, this version has been made available to newsmen in Washington.

The Vietnamese agent was working for the Green Berets and after he was suspected of being a double agent the Green Beret men asked CIA friends, who were also engaged in undercover work in South Vietnam, what they should do with the suspect.

The CIA officers recommended that the suspect be turned over to South Vietnamese authorities, who could nurse the information into the suspect's activities and knowledge.

Later, one of the eight Green Berets came to a CIA colleague and said the suspect had been killed. The Green Berets had told their Army superiors in Saigon that the suspect had been sent on a mission. The CIA man advised that the true story be told to Army investigators.

An investigator then went to the Green Beret unit and determined to his satisfaction that there was evidence the Vietnamese man had died June 20.

In sum, according to this version, the Vietnamese victim was not a CIA employee, the CIA never ordered him killed but only recommended that he be turned over to South Vietnamese officials, and the CIA only learned of the reported death after it had occurred.

The Green Beret commander, Col. Robert B. Rheault, was relieved of his command July 21 and on Aug. 5 the Army announced the charges against him and the other seven.

The Army inquiry, a military version of a grand jury investigation, ended Aug. 21. It is now up to the investigating officer to recommend whether the accused special forces men should be brought to trial.

Gen. Hershey Under Fire Of Appeals Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Henry J. Gwiazda, head of the National Selective Service Appeals Board, charges draft director Lewis B. Hershey is trying to take advantage of the board's transition to seize control of it.

Gwiazda, of New Britain, Conn., said that President Nixon — on July 9 — requested that he and Dr. Kenneth W. Clement, of Cleveland, resign from the board. A draft spokesman said this is the date on which Hershey gave a personal aide — Col. George J. Wendel — command of the board's staff of four persons.

Although the White House has accepted Clement's resignation, there has been no announcement on the one from Gwiazda. No resignation was sought from the third member, Charles N. Collatos of Lynnfield, Mass.

The draft spokesman said Wendel anticipated Nixon's acceptance of Gwiazda's resignation and ordered that no more files be mailed to the chairman because Wendel didn't want files to be "in transit to a person not on the board."

White Building Workers Stage Pittsburgh March

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Hundreds of white construction workers angered over an order that stopped them from working for two days to meet Negro job demands marched through Pittsburgh's downtown today, carrying signs, chanting and clapping their hands.

As they progressed through the downtown during busy morning rush-hour traffic, pedestrians along their way whistled, cheered and clapped. Motorists in cars and bus drivers honked their horns. People in buildings along the march route tossed confetti out of windows.

About 600 of the workers gathered at Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, just on the fringe of the biggest Negro area in Pittsburgh, and started their march. They milled around until a group of ironworkers surged forward and shouted: "Let's go!" As they walked, more people joined the march. Police estimated the crowd at 2,000.

"We want to work! We want to work! We want to work!" the men chanted. Interspersed were cries of "White power." Some of the signs read: "White Pride and Union Unity," "Joe Sold Us Down the River," and "Down With Joe, We Want to Work." The "Joe" was in reference to Mayor Joseph M. Barr.

The workers took a winding path through the downtown, keeping to the sidewalks and stooping traffic only when they crossed the streets. Policemen on motorcycles escorted the group. The march was orderly.

The marchers stopped at the City-County Building where about 200 construction workers gathered to protest the shutdown of construction projects to meet Negro demands that more blacks be admitted to craft unions.

Owners of 10 major construction projects involving more than $200 million and 31,000 workers closed the jobs Thursday after three days of bitter demonstrations seeking more craft union jobs for blacks.

Canton Home Fire Kills 4 In Family

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Four members of a Canton family were killed Thursday night in a fire that raged through their home.

Killed were Catherine Haddix, 27, and her three children — Lisa, 6, Patrick, 4, and Larry, 2.

The father, John Haddix, was burned critically.

Firemen said flames were coming out the windows and door of the house when they reached the scene.

The children were found in upstairs bedrooms.

The children and their mother were apparently asphyxiated, firemen said. All were found in their beds, and apparently suffered only slight burns.

Arab Terrorism May Be Carried To United States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The leader of an Arab guerrilla organization said today there would be more fire and bomb attacks against Jewish establishments in London and indicated the campaign may be carried to the United States.

Dr. George Habash, leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, said his group was responsible for a number of recent attacks on Jewish stores and offices in London and declared: "The fighting strategy of the PFLP is to pursue the Israeli enemy wherever he may be. We shall strike at all Zionist establishments both inside Palestine and abroad."

Asked whether the attacks would be extended to the United States, Habash replied: "We shall expand our operations everywhere in all parts of the world. The enemy camps include not only Israel but also the Zionist movement, world imperialism led by the United States and reactionary powers bound to the imperialists."

Habash was interviewed in Amman, Jordan, where the guerrilla organization has its headquarters. It has claimed credit for hijacking an Israeli airliner over the Mediterranean last summer, shooting up two other El Al jets in Athens and Zurich and planting a bomb in a Jerusalem supermarket that killed 2 Israelis and injured 26.

The editor of Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said today the Arabs must take the initiative in getting the United States to change its mind on the Arab-Israeli question.

Israeli authorities imposed a curfew today on the area south of Jerusalem used as a launching site by Arab saboteurs for a rocket attack on the Holy City Tuesday. A search is continuing for the saboteurs who sent three rockets screaming into Jerusalem. The rockets landed on open ground and caused no casualties or damage in the first rocket attack on the city since the 1967 war.

Tricia's OK, Doctor Says

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Tricia Nixon's abdominal pain has been diagnosed and she is expected to recover fully soon, the Western White House says.

A spokesman for the presidential family said Thursday that White House physician Dr. Walter Tkach preferred not to give out the diagnosis "in accordance with the principle of patient-physician relationship."

The president's 23-year-old daughter was recuperating at the Washington White House, but plans to return to California before Sept. 8, when her parents end their month-long vacation here.

The American Stock Exchange, which in the past has jointly fixed trading hours with the New York Exchange, said only that it would continue the present schedule until further notice.

Marines Advance Against Enemy Fortified Bunker

SAIGON (AP) — Four companies of U.S. Marines fought their way up a hillside through a stream of enemy gunfire Thursday in the foothills southwest of Da Nang. After nearly two weeks of hard fighting in the sector, at least 72 Americans and 646 North Vietnamese were reported killed.

A battalion of the 7th Marine Regiment advanced against North Vietnamese firing from fortified bunkers. Marine tanks reinforced the foot soldiers in the fight to keep the North Vietnamese from breaking into the thickly settled coastal lowlands.

Latest field reports said 18 Americans were killed and 66 wounded in Thursday's fighting. Twenty-three North Vietnamese were reported killed.

In the valley beneath the hill, a company from the 196th Light Infantry Brigade linked up with a Marine company. But about 150 yards away another 75 men from the brigade suffered 30 per cent casualties—five killed and 22 wounded—in a five-hour fight, and only five North Vietnamese were reported killed.

A Marine helicopter crashed near the fighting, but a U.S. spokesman said mechanical trouble brought it down rather than enemy fire. Three Americans were seriously injured, and eight others suffered minor injuries.

A small Army observation helicopter also was shot down 19 miles northwest of Saigon, wounding two crewmen.

The losses raised to 2,979 the number of American helicopters lost in the war.

Motorists Urged To Be Cautious

The Circleville Police Department, Pickaway County Sheriff and the Ohio State Highway Patrol issued warnings to holiday drivers today in an effort to stop traffic accidents in Pickaway County over the three-day Labor Day period.

The local law enforcement agency cautioned drivers about the heavy traffic at the Main and Mingo intersection and the heavy traffic Sunday afternoon on Ohio Street near the Circleville Bible College Campus.

Although the police expect no more accidents than usual, they want all motorists in the city to use their usual good judgement while driving.

The OSP noted, "Labor Day is the last big holiday of the summer season. For this reason, it is often the busiest."

The Patrol will be out on the highways in full force over the holidays to help stranded motorists and if necessary, arresting traffic violators.

They issued this warning to traffic violators, "All Highway Patrol officers will issue no warnings. Traffic violators will be arrested and prosecuted."

CAB Chairman Resigns His Job

Who Sows Young People Are Irresponsible?

Ohio Teen-Agers Aid Handicapped Girl

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Tensia is deaf, speechless and cross-eyed.

If all goes well, someday the little 6-year-old Guatemalan may be able to tell her children of the kindness of some unselfish Warren youngsters and about the sights and sounds of the United States.

But for now, she must settle for a better diet and a silent, blurred world — a world she cannot talk about.

Twenty-two young members of the Christ Episcopal Church worked two years to raise $9,000 so they could spend two weeks in a remote Guatemalan jungle mission. It was there that the teen-agers came across Hortensia Monroy Edua, whose mother had abandoned the family and whose father despairingly gave up the child.

"The head of the mission, Father Altman, told us Tensia's mother had abandoned the family," said Mrs. Edward Meredith, who along with her husband, headed the young missionaries. "Then last February, the father gave the child to the mission, saying he could do no more for her himself."

It was in the Meredith's custody that Tensia arrived in this country on a visitor's visa.

The girl was "adopted" temporarily only after many telephone calls between the Central American country and Warren.

Tensia laughs and giggles when she plays and makes a high, grunting noise when she wants someone's attention. Dr. Donald Hall, a physician and a church vestryman, says this indicates to him that the girl probably was born with her hearing, but lost it later. Warren ear specialists are checking the child now to see if her hearing can be restored through surgery.

Nixon Desegregation Policy Nears Big Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration school desegregation policy — seen by critics as contradictory and confusing — comes to the test next week.

As pupils in 17 Southern and Border states return to fall classes, a controversy swirls on the direction of civil rights enforcement 15 years after the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the "separate but equal" concept.

"Pussyfooting" is the tag put on the Nixon policy by Clarence Mitchell Jr., Washington representative for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Retrospective," said some dissident lawyers in the Justice Department's civil rights division.

"Politics," declared congressional liberals.

Nevertheless, by this time next week, government officials say almost twice the number of Negro youngsters will be attending previously all-white southern schools as in any previous years.

Figures alone are impressive. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says that of 4,476 once segregated districts, a total of 2,994 will open next week with completely unitary schools, unidentifiable by race.

Of the remainder, 369 are under court orders to desegregate and 1,107 are functioning under voluntary plans submitted to HEW for achieving total integration.

"This means," said an HEW spokesman Thursday, "that where one-fifth of the South's Negro youngsters were attending integrated white schools last year, one third will have the advantage of an integrated education during 1969-70."

Around the figures game, however, swirls the controversy.

The administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson had set next month as the deadline for complete integration of once-segregated southern schools. Only a few exceptions were authorized.

In July, the Nixon administration relaxed those deadlines. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Welfare Secretary Robert H.

Three Missing Yank Fliers Reported Safe

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea said today all three American helicopter crewmen who were shot down Aug. 17 are alive and offered to exchange them for a confession and apologies from Washington.

At a meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission, the chief North Korean representative said Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman E. Hofstatter of Lowpoint, Ill., were seriously injured. He said WO Malcolm V. Loeper, the pilot, of Richmond, Ind., was slightly injured.

The North Korean delegate, Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-Sun, said doctors are treating them, but he gave no further information on their condition.

He said North Korea would consider their return "in accordance with past practices" if the Americans admitted "criminally" sending the OH23 helicopter over North Korea.

Lee apparently was referring to the arrangement under which North Korea released two other American helicopter crewmen in 1964, a year after they were shot down on May 17, 1963. The North Koreans returned them after the U.N. Command signed a document admitting they were spying, then repudiated the confession as soon as the men were returned. The same procedure was followed to get the Pueblo crew back last December.

Once again U.S. officials contend that the helicopter pilot lost his way and flew into North Korean air space by mistake. But there was no indication (Continued on Page 2)

Medical officials at the hospital said he had survived longer than anyone else known to have contacted rabies.

Tommy was playing in the back yard April 1 when his mother, washing dishes in the kitchen just a few steps away, heard Tommy scream.

A wild bobcat had attacked, clawing the lad and biting him on the leg, shoulder and the base of the skull. Mrs. Buchmann drove the bobcat off.

Tommy began a series of rabies shots—he had 18—but still developed the dread sickness.

CAB Chairman Resigns His Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman John H. Crocker Jr. has obligingly unsnarled a vexing problem for President Nixon by giving up his $40,000-a-year job.

The Houston, Tex., Democrat, a close friend and political appointee of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, gives this reasoning for his resignation with five years of his term left: "I think the party that wins an election is entitled to have the chairmanship and a majority of a regulatory agency."

COLUMBUS (AP) — The debate over national priorities, focused so far mainly on military spending, may shift to its first civilian target next month when the Senate takes up space program funding.

Floor debate over the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's steadily shrinking budget is expected after work is completed on a military appropriations measure and some money bills needed to run the government.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said he expects extended debate over the administration's request for $3.7 billion for NASA.

The Senate Space Committee has cut some $250 million out of the House space measure, but approved the $37 million the administration asked.

Since most of this money is for projects far along in the planning stage—including more moon landings—it is unlikely to suffer much trimming.

But the debate will provide the first real forum on whether the nation should try to send men to Mars in the 1980s or direct most of the vast outlays it would take to do so into easing poverty, hunger and housing problems.

NASA officials have estimated that to put a man on the Red Planet by 1981 would cost some $64 billion starting in 1974.

This would mean a return to annual space outlays of some $6-billion-plus that were part of the U.S. moon-landing program at its peak.

Suggestions by NASA officials that a manned flight to Mars might be possible by 1981 followed Vice President Spiro Agnew's July comment that the United States could do it by the year 2000.

Agnew's comment also prompted a storm of criticism with Mansfield and his assistant Democratic leader, Edward M. Kennedy, in the forefront.

Others, including Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart of Michigan, were quick to add their voices, giving the early debate over space spending much of the same lineup as the battle over defense spending.

Justice Tom C. Clark, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, retired, last week personally commended Judge William Ammer of Circleville, for his work as a faculty adviser of the National College of State Trial Judges at the University of Nevada in Reno.

Judge Ammer was responsible for leading and directing the evening seminar sessions for a group of other judges selected from 48 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

The commendation was given by Justice Clark as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the College at the conclusion of a month long study session which covered trials and judicial administration for both new and experienced trial judges as well as some judges of appellate courts.

"Your efforts and abilities in advancing concepts and procedures that will materially assist in the effective and prompt administration of justice in this nation are deeply appreciated by the Board of Directors," Justice Clark stated.

"What is more important your excellent work will prove to result in benefit to the general public."

JUDGE Ammer has served on the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County since 1957. He was President of the Ohio Common Pleas Judges Association in 1968.

As the summer session ended, Judge Ammer noted that the College program is not only an indoctrination for new judges but is the means of exchange of legal concepts and procedures among judges with long experience on the bench.

"The course of the National College is an important development in post graduate legal education to help solve the problems which face the trial courts in the administration of justice," Judge Ammer concluded.

Judge Ammer has participated in four seminars held in Ohio by the National College during the last five years.

Laurence M. Hyde, Jr., Dean of the College stated that, "Faculty advisers for the College are drawn from persons of national reputation throughout the United States. Each member is responsible for the study and discussion of twelve different subjects designed to cover the field of trials and judicial administration. The judges serving as faculty and faculty advisers receive no monetary compensation."

The national "Judge's College", as it is sometimes called, has graduated nearly 1,200 judges in the past five years. They represent 30 per cent of the nation's trial courts and have come from every state. Financing for the College is from the grants of the W. K. Kellogg and Max C. Fleischmann Foundations. Two sessions, each one month long, are held each year.

Balloon Racing Feature At Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hot-air balloon racing, one of the more popular events at the Ohio State Fair, was featured today at the big exposition.

Seven of the world's best aeronauts, including one woman, were competing for the $1,000 top prize.

The balloons were to fly a 90-minute race with the winner being determined by distance traveled.

Fair officials said 164,188 people passed through the gates Thursday for a total attendance of 1,342,523 in eight days.

Meanwhile, a Columbus finance company said it would present a $1,000 prize to the fair's two millionth visitor.

If fair attendance continues at its record pace of about 330,000 ahead of last year, it should top two million on Labor Day, closing day.

The four-day harness racing program ended Thursday with Game Pride winning the $22,250 Governor's Cup Trot for three-year-olds.

Game Pride won the race-off in 2:06 after Abe, winner of the first elimination heat, broke stride at the start.

In another activity Thursday, Carrie Sloan, 89, of Urbana, outbaked her "younger" competitor to win the Senior Citizens Cookie Bake-off.

But her soft cookie recipe, Black Walnut, won't appear in the book of winning entries put out each year because Mrs. Sloan, oldest participant in history of the event, bakes without benefit of a recipe.

Other highlights Thursday included horse, sheep, dairy cattle and beef cattle judging.

Fair officials said country music singer Johnny Cash filled the free grandstand again for both performances.

Today was Youth Day and Cincinnati Day, with British signing star Petula Clark featured at the grandstand. Also on today's agenda were auto thrill shows and a boxing tournament.

Just When Does An Elephant Need An Orchestra??

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Two dancing elephants at a casino do not need a 10-man orchestra to accompany their dance during the off-season, a judge has ruled.

The local musicians' union protested when Bertha and Tina, two 9,000-pound pachyderms, performed without a full orchestra on Jan. 17 at the Nugget Casino.

The union said an agreement with the casino called for a minimum of 10 musicians to be employed in the casino's Circus Room, where the two perform regularly, and asked that the dispute be arbitrated.

In enjoining the Reno Musicians Protective Union Local 368 from seeking arbitration, Washoe District Judge John Gabrielli ruled the agreement does not apply during the winter months when the room is converted to a lounge.

John Fenneken, Route 1, Ashville, reported a car fire at Davis Sunoco at 12:20 p.m. Friday.

An estimated $125 damage was done to the engine of the station jeep.

"I started up the engine and it caught fire. Must have been the carburetor," commented Fenneken.

Two Jetliners Are Hijacked

MIAMI (AP) — A hijacker accompanied by a woman and three children took control of a National Airlines jet 45 miles north of Key West today and ordered the pilot to fly to Havana.

"We are being hijacked," the pilot radioed to the control tower at Miami International Airport. "Everything is under control. We will probably not be talking to you again until the departure from Havana."

NAL said the plane, Flight 183, had 48 passengers and six crewmen aboard. It had taken off from Miami for New Orleans and Houston.

The airlines said the Pilot reported the hijacker was accompanied by a woman and three children.

World Airlines jetliner with 113 persons aboard was hijacked to Tel Aviv today, missing a scheduled stop in Athens, TWA in Rome reported.

The Boeing 707 took off from Rome for Athens and Tel Aviv. A TWA spokesman said that as the plane was approaching the Greek capital the captain radioed to Rome: "Proceeding directly to Tel Aviv. Hijack."

The plane carried 101 passengers and a crew of 12. The flight — No. 840 — originated on the U.S. West Coast and proceeded to New York before arriving in Rome.

The spokesman said officials of the airline in Rome had no immediate idea who carried out the hijacking.

Dear Abby: She Loves To Talk On Phone!

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of "compulsive shoppers" and "compulsive eaters." Well, I am a compulsive telephoner. We are fairly new in this city and we don't know many people. My husband works out of town during the week and is home only on week-ends, so naturally I get lonesome and start calling my friends. They all live out of town, so these calls are "long distance."

I won't even tell you what some of our telephone bills have been. I even went to see a psychiatrist about this, and all he could offer was a prescription for "pills" to relieve depression. I'm not really "depressed," I'm just bored and lonesome. Besides, I love to talk on the telephone, but once I get started I forget about time and can talk for an hour.

My husband has threatened to take out our telephone and put in a pay phone, and to tell you the truth, I'm about ready to let him. Is there any other solution?

LOVES TO TALK
DEAR ABBY: I think your husband's solution is probably the best. Just don't start calling your friends "collect" or you're apt to find that they don't love to talk as much as you do.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a gentleman who lets a lady win in a game of sports or cards?

THE LADY
DEAR ABBY: If a gentleman lets a lady know that he has let her win, he's no gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if

Family Man Gets A Taste Of 'Shelved' Cage Career

BOSTON (AP) — Like many men faced with the need to give their families security, Jess Cain gave up a career that he had dreamed of and turned to steadier work. Unlike most such men, he has been able to savor some of the dream job's delights, too.

The host of a popular radio program in Boston, he credits his wife, Jean, with the encouragement that has enabled him to return to the professional stage after an absence of more than 10 years.

The return is not complete—it has been for week-long runs this year and last—but it's in starring roles with accomplished performers, sell-out crowds, and critical praise.

Last year, he played Oscar the slob in "The Odd Couple," replacing Dan Dailey in a touring company that also starred Tom Poston and had several actors from the original Broadway cast.

This year, he played the male lead in the musical "I Do, I Do" opposite Dran Hamilton, who was the standby for Mary Martin during the show's Broadway run.

During the mid-1950s, Cain had a succession of stage roles, off and on Broadway, including a run in both the New York and touring companies of "Stalag 17." Television roles in programs such as "Sgt. Bilko" and "The Goldbergs" also provided some income, but in 1957 he looked for regular work.

"I don't know. Maybe I didn't have the courage, the fortitude, the guts to stick it out," he said. His wife added, "And we'd had a lot of babies in a short time." They now have four children.

Cain came to Boston radio station WHDH, where his creative wit and ability to sense the humor in the everyday traumas that plague him and his listeners has made the station's morning show four hours of top-rated, entertaining whimsy.

The radio job and commercials paid well—he was the voice of the "one-way, six-pint, six-pack" promotion by a cola company. The chance to get back to the stage came when Dailey was unable to remain with the "Odd Couple" company for its run at a large theater in suburban Beverly. Friends in the cast suggested Cain for the role.

Dear Abby: She Loves To Talk On Phone!

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of "compulsive shoppers" and "compulsive eaters." Well, I am a compulsive telephoner. We are fairly new in this city and we don't know many people. My husband works out of town during the week and is home only on week-ends, so naturally I get lonesome and start calling my friends. They all live out of town, so these calls are "long distance."

I won't even tell you what some of our telephone bills have been. I even went to see a psychiatrist about this, and all he could offer was a prescription for "pills" to relieve depression. I'm not really "depressed," I'm just bored and lonesome. Besides, I love to talk on the telephone, but once I get started I forget about time and can talk for an hour.

My husband has threatened to take out our telephone and put in a pay phone, and to tell you the truth, I'm about ready to let him. Is there any other solution?

LOVES TO TALK
DEAR ABBY: I think your husband's solution is probably the best. Just don't start calling your friends "collect" or you're apt to find that they don't love to talk as much as you do.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a gentleman who lets a lady win in a game of sports or cards?

THE LADY
DEAR ABBY: If a gentleman lets a lady know that he has let her win, he's no gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if

Family Man Gets A Taste Of 'Shelved' Cage Career

BOSTON (AP) — Like many men faced with the need to give their families security, Jess Cain gave up a career that he had dreamed of and turned to steadier work. Unlike most such men, he has been able to savor some of the dream job's delights, too.

The host of a popular radio program in Boston, he credits his wife, Jean, with the encouragement that has enabled him to return to the professional stage after an absence of more than 10 years.

The return is not complete—it has been for week-long runs this year and last—but it's in starring roles with accomplished performers, sell-out crowds, and critical praise.

Last year, he played Oscar the slob in "The Odd Couple," replacing Dan Dailey in a touring company that also starred Tom Poston and had several actors from the original Broadway cast.

This year, he played the male lead in the musical "I Do, I Do" opposite Dran Hamilton, who was the standby for Mary Martin during the show's Broadway run.

During the mid-1950s, Cain had a succession of stage roles, off and on Broadway, including a run in both the New York and touring companies of "Stalag 17." Television roles in programs such as "Sgt. Bilko" and "The Goldbergs" also provided some income, but in 1957 he looked for regular work.

"I don't know. Maybe I didn't have the courage, the fortitude, the guts to stick it out," he said. His wife added, "And we'd had a lot of babies in a short time." They now have four children.

Cain came to Boston radio station WHDH, where his creative wit and ability to sense the humor in the everyday traumas that plague him and his listen-

Social Security Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in an attempt to clear up problems about social security, will periodically have a question-answer column in The Herald.

Q. Suppose that after completing two years at junior college, I decided to attend a computer programming school instead of going on to the State University. Will my social security student benefit payments be continued while I am attending this school?

A. Yes, providing the computer programming school is accredited as an educational institution. Better check into this before completing your plans. Also be sure to keep the Social Security Administration informed of your school attendance.

Q. I expect to work part-time while attending college. Most of my employment will be during the summer vacation months. However, I also expect to work weekends during the school year. How will this work affect my student benefit payments?

A. You can earn as much as $1,680 during each calendar year and still receive all your student benefits. If you expect to earn over $1,680 per year, be sure to notify the social security office of your expected earnings, and necessary adjustments will be made to your social security benefits. Benefits are always payable for any month you do not earn wages of over $140.

Q. I'm 26 years old and haven't worked for the past 9 months because of injuries I got in an auto accident. I worked steadily from the time I got out of college when I was 22 until the accident. But I haven't worked the full 5 years which I understand is required before you can get social security disability benefits. Isn't that so?

A. Not quite. Under a 1967 change in the law, young people who become disabled before age 31 need only to have worked one-half the time between age 21 and the time they became disabled. You appear to have met the work requirement and, if you will not be able to go back to work for at least 3 months more, I'd suggest you get in touch with the social security office to file a claim right away so you won't lose any benefits.

Q. Is it true that I must wait until I am out of work for 6 months before I can file a disability claim?

A. No. Although social security benefits cannot begin until after you have been disabled for 6 months, you can file a claim any time after you find that your disability will last for 12 months or more. In fact, it is to your advantage to file a claim as early as possible. Medical reports must be secured and the review process takes longer than for a non-disability claim.

Opposition To Church Change Grows

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharpening resistance is showing up lately to changing customs and methods in the churches. Although the tide of reform still runs strongly, it is meeting added buildups of opposition.

Some of the disapproval has taken on organized form. It also appears widely in survey returns and individual letters to church journals.

"A revolt is going on against the political, social and economic programs the church has taken on," writes a Rapid City, S.D., lay woman to a denominational monthly, the Episcopalian.

There is an upsurge of conservatism among Christians, says the Rev. Dr. Billy Melvin of Wheaton, Ill., executive director of the National Association of Evangelicals. Calling such counter-efforts essential, its 1969 convention charged: "New theologies, new moralities and new forms of worship have corrupted the Christian religion sometimes almost past recognition."

The Rev. Dr. A. Dale Fiers of Indianapolis, general minister of the Christian Church (Disciples), says there is a growing "danger of polarization within the church." He cites a trend of reaction against church social action.

Besides tensions on that score, much of the criticism, both in Protestantism and Catholicism, has focused on changes in outward forms—on new liturgies and modernized ways of worship.

"We are facing a crisis in the liturgy," declares a Catholic group, Una Voce in the United States, deploring what it terms "radical liturgical practices."

A broad sampling of the disapproving Catholic sentiment turned up in a recent national survey, the first of its kind, on whether Catholics favor dropping the rule requiring Mass attendance on holy days.

A tentative analysis of the results indicate a majority of laymen want to stick to the old rule, although official findings still are to be made known.

With a thoroughly revised Catholic missal—a new order of worship for the Mass—scheduled to go into effect Nov. 1, the head of the Vatican office on worship, Benno Cardinal Gut, says the period of liturgical experimentation will end.

Champlin, the associate director of the liturgy secretariat for U.S. bishops, says "the reform and renewal of the liturgy is at about the half-way point." He says the rest of the process will be in implementing changes already authorized.

Several Catholic groups have sharply assailed the new order of the Mass even before it goes into general use.

Independent groups also have risen in several Protestant denominations in opposition to general trends in religious life. Some of them report rapid growth lately.

Ignoring Warnings

There probably always will be people who insist upon thumbing their noses at danger, unnecessarily risking their lives in some meaningless bravado. Motorists who refuse to use their seat belts reflect a mild form of this stance.

Not all the people who lost their lives in the onslaught of the hurricane Camille were in this category. Some had legitimate reasons to be where they were when the storm struck. Others of the victims had taken what they believed to be adequate precautions.

Still, there were the reports of the surfers, who after everyone else had deserted the beaches decided to test the big waves. And the partying couples who decided to throw a "hurricane party" to celebrate the excitement. No one has recorded the plight of the surfers, but the partygoers later were found among the dead.

Terrible though the loss of life and property destruction from Camille was, it cannot match the tolls hurricanes of lesser intensity formerly took. More than 6,000 residents died in the storm which hit Galveston in 1900.

The difference is accounted for by the excellent warning system the Weather Bureau and other agencies have put together to track major storms and provide ample warning to populated areas of impending disaster. Many thousands of persons heeded the warnings that Camille threatened to be one of the fiercest storms ever to batter the U.S. coast.

Those who foolishly stayed behind found out the hard way how true those predictions were.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal regulators of business certainly have enough problems today, not only with the industries they watch but because they are being watched also by critics such as Ralph Nader and others.

Nevertheless, here are a couple more problems that Washington may have to handle in greater numbers: reciprocity in buying and selling, the "you buy from me, I buy from you" syndrome; and power concentration in the stock market.

First reciprocity. A large company selling a broad line of products wishes to diversify even more. It looks the field over and decides to buy into a smaller company, one of many companies that make a similar product and with which the larger company trades.

The interest is only a minority one, but the thought occurs to the heads of both companies that, since they are part of one big family now, the large one should buy only from the smaller one, regardless of quality and price.

It seems reasonable, at least from a selfish and narrow point of view. The regulators, however, are committed to taking a broad view of the market place. Reciprocity, the government has said time and time again, unfairly limits competition and injures the competitive opportunities of other companies.

Now here's the rub. A surge seems to be under way in corporate purchases of minority interests in other companies. W. T. Grimm & Co., management consulting firm, reports 2,815 outright mergers in the first six months of this year. But it estimates two to three times as many minority purchases.

Will these minority purchases lead to reciprocity? Perhaps not in great numbers. But the already overworked regulators are going to have to watch the trend nevertheless, because they can't be sure unless they check.

The issue of power concentration in the stock market is largely one for the Securities and Exchange Commission. Power is being concentrated, there is no argument about that. The question, again, is whether competition is reduced.

Consider the situation in which some mutual fund management companies find themselves these days. Because they wish to reach all segments of the market, these managers come up with different funds for different purposes.

There are conservative funds, speculative funds, income funds, capital gains funds and so on. Once a good mutual fund salesman sizes you up there's a very good chance he will produce a fund that suits your purposes.

The question of competition comes up in the buying and selling of stocks by the funds which, in the tradition of the market place, should try to outwit each other. But do they never succumb to temptation? It's a very difficult thing to prove that the portfolio manager of one fund doesn't communicate his trading plans with the manager of another fund in the same stable, especially since they draw their paychecks from the same source. It is equally difficult to believe that, in the interests of profits and in reducing losses, such activities do not take place.

The importance of the situation is underscored by the tendency of funds to be grouped under one management. Few management companies today are content with just one entry in the mutual fund derby.

Mission: Impossible

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At first blush, the Mission seemed indeed impossible: for a television series to carry on without two of its most important stars. But the show is going on with no apparent loss of vitality.

That is the word from Bruce Geller, the man who conceived and oversees "Mission: Impossible." The imaginative series has captured millions of viewers, several Emmys and critical acclaim, if not the loyalty of two of its original cast members, Martin Landau and Barbara Bain.

Both have cut out after three seasons, Miss Bain delivering her kiss-off in explicit terms at the Emmy awards in June. The reasons for the departures of the married pair are clouded in controversy, and her decision is being contested by lawyers for the producing company, Paramount.

"I can't say anything about it; I'm the guy who's caught in the middle," said the youthful, athletic-looking Geller in his studio office.

But he is every inventive—he also oversees "Mannix"—and is preparing three pilot films for CBS and has a three-picture contract with Cinema Center Films. Geller solved Landau's departure by enlisting Leonard Nimoy, formerly the pointed-eared Mr. Spock of "Star Trek."

"At this point we have no running lady in 'Mission,'" said Geller. "We have used guest stars like Sally Ann Howes, Lee Meriwether, and Alexandra Hay—with her clothes on (Miss Hay has done nude scenes in films). Some of them may repeat, but so far we're planning no replacement for Barbara."

Naturally we'd like her back. But that's in the hands of the lawyers."

"Fortunately 'Mission' is the kind of show that doesn't rely on any single star. You can't write this show for a character; the story itself is the star, and that story is tightly controlled.

"The dictates of the plot are total. We have never cut a single scene from any segment. We may have shortened it, yes, but we can never cut it entirely. That's how tight the scripts are written."

Dear Editor: When Governor "no new taxes" Rhodes signed into law Ohio's Education Tax bill, he killed any chance of passage the local school levy may have had at the polls this coming Nov. 4.

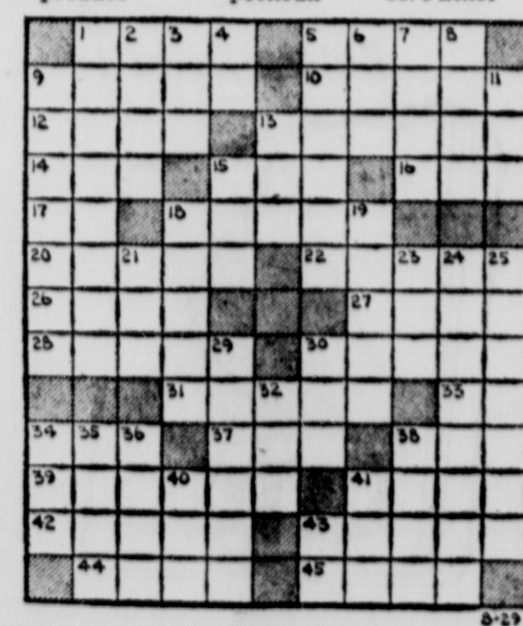

In other words, he stabbed it to death with his 39 cent pen, leaving Roundtowners no other choice but to bury the issue.

PATRICIA O'HAIRE is worried. "Judging by current reports from our institutions of learning," she notes, "the only people who seem to be attending schools and colleges regularly these days are the police. Soon, it figures, our cops will not only be the finest; they'll be the best educated."

Just back from a year-long business sojourn in Mexico, a Sacramento citizen was driving past a busy intersection when another car ignored a red light and crashed into him. The victim complained, "For a full year I've been driving this car in the middle of all those crazy drivers in Mexico and never got a scratch on it. Now, two days back home in California, you demolish my car for me. What on earth were you dreaming about, anyhow?" The other driver looked at him blankly, shrugged his shoulders, and said, "NO COMPRENDO, SENOR!"

The McGill News recalls a time when Humorist Stephen Leacock taught in a small Canadian college for the princely sum of $700 a year. Even in those good old days he had a tough time keeping body and soul together on a salary like that, so he finally wrote a letter to the college trustees saying, "Unless you can see your way clear to increasing my stipend immediately, I shall reluctantly be compelled to" (and here it was necessary to turn the page to read the conclusion)—"continue teaching for the same figure."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Ours is a happy family. Our first child is a healthy boy now age four. My husband is a considerate, sober, outstanding member of the community. Our second son was born three months ago by normal delivery. I cannot understand, therefore, why I have fits of depression making it almost impossible for me to complete the day. I am told that I will get over this, but meanwhile life is not worth living.

Mrs. L.L.R., Pennsylvania
Dear Mrs. R: It is completely understandable you are confused that such depression comes to upset a happy family life. Let me immediately say that is not unusual for a healthy young woman to develop, without any obvious reason, an overwhelming feeling of depression after the birth of a child. This is known technically as a post-partum depression which appears in perfectly stable people who have as healthy a relationship with their husband as you do.

There are many explanations, some on a physical basis, while others are attributed to the emotions. Whatever the explanation is it is not nearly as important as how it must be handled.

The attitude that says your depression will pass away is unfair to you. This unwelcome complication after the birth of a baby is not different from a physical problem that might have occurred.

You and your child will benefit from the guidance a psychiatrist can offer you at this time. Your husband is too close to the picture to help with advice.

Can you tell me the dangers of having a sauna in the home? How often should it be used with safety? The manufacturer gave no instructions at all.

Mrs. P.C.K., Pennsylvania
Dear Mrs. K: A sauna is a type of steam bath first devised in Finland. It is used there with great frequency. Some bathhouses provide steam by throwing water over hot coals or hot stones.

The value of steam is recognized for many illnesses and is beneficial because of its sheer relaxation. Many saunas are now made for home use. It is known that too much steam without proper regulation can be very dehydrating and can cause fatigue. Before a sauna is used there are advantages in consulting the doctor about it. There are some health conditions which may make the use of the sauna inadvisable.

I cannot conceive of the possibility of manufacturers of such equipment purposely selling them without complete instructions. The chances are that the instructions and safety precautions were lost.

Not Alone In Troubles

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A great deal of pious horror was expressed when Congress, angered by students who seemed to be majoring in Trespass and Arson and minoring in Assault and Battery, threatened to crack down on financial aid to colleges that permit the boys to go wild. The Administration, listening to educator Dr. Milton Eisenhower, pleaded with the legislators to go slow about using any financial whip on student malefactors. So we are apparently going to be nice to the universities for another year, trusting that they will get their own houses in order.

It can be taken as a corollary to Parkinson's Law, however, that the more money received from government by the universities to carry out their programs, the less vigilant those same universities will be in seeing that the cash is spent on getting knowledge into the most deserving heads. In Soviet Russia, where education is wholly a state function, they are apparently having even worse troubles than the western nations in getting value for whatever goes into the educational budget.

Representatives Edith Green of Oregon and John S. Monagan of Connecticut, who argue that there should be a limit to financing students who think experience on the barricades is more "relevant" than attending lectures, would certainly be interested in recent Radio Liberty translations from Soviet periodicals bearing on the Communist troubles with undergraduates who consider that books are to be avoided. "What Price a Diploma?" asks V. Tomilov, an instructor at the Tselinograd Agricultural Institute, in a typically despairing article in the Young Communist.

The Russian student, according to Tomilov, costs the government 990 rubles a year, which pays for free tuition, the free use of libraries, reduced transportation rates and a guarantee of a job in the student's chosen field when he finishes his schooling.

In spite of this help, however, the number of students who fail increases annually. In 1961-62 some 21,000 students were expelled from higher educational institutions in Russia; in 1966-67 the number had jumped to 38,000. Worse than this, the students who manage to remain in secondary schools have been making a cult of the "passing grade." Mediocrity is the goal.

and Soviet educators are complaining about it all over the country.

There is no financial or career-oriented reason for the Russian student to get more than the minimum passing mark, for those who graduate with a rating of excellent receive no preferential treatment when they are assigned to jobs. The delinquent student, however, can count on something that amounts to a preferential reward for just skimming through. In Kiev, a medical school graduate asked the Employment Commission to give him an administrative job, explaining that "I won't be able to handle medical work, I don't know too much." Such instances are multiplied many times over in Soviet articles that bear such titles as "Is the Concept of an Average Student Valid?"

In a socialist country, where everybody lives on public funds, it can be death to use the financial whip on people. Nevertheless, Professor Tomilov, sounding very much like Representatives Green and Monagan, wants to see a law passed that would make students "financially responsible for the quality of their work and for the discipline of the academic process."

Financial penalties would strike home in Russia, where, in a poll of eight hundred students, only three per cent claimed to exert themselves to the utmost and forty-seven per cent admitted to putting forth no great effort.

From the U.S. standpoint in a world in which countries are engaged in a Darwinian struggle to survive, it is comforting to know that the Soviets seem to have all the troubles we have. J. Edgar Hoover is worried about the growth of crime in America, but a Russian, Panos V. Fedenko, writes that, despite "socialist construction," lawlessness is increasing in the Soviet Union "at an alarming rate." Evidently it is no more enviable to be a "pig" (i.e., a cop) of a professor under Communism than it is under capitalism. It may even be more disillusioning, for the socialists have been promising us Utopia.

Ignoring Warnings

There probably always will be people who insist upon thumbing their noses at danger, unnecessarily risking their lives in some meaningless bravado. Motorists who refuse to use their seat belts reflect a mild form of this stance.

Not all the people who lost their lives in the onslaught of the hurricane Camille were in this category. Some had legitimate reasons to be where they were when the storm struck. Others of the victims had taken what they believed to be adequate precautions.

Still, there were the reports of the surfers, who after everyone else had deserted the beaches decided to test the big waves. And the partying couples who decided to throw a "hurricane party" to celebrate the excitement. No one has recorded the plight of the

"I understand that that little bully in the next block is going to be in the same kindergarten class with you, Andrew. Don't let him knock all your front teeth out."

"If you aren't polite to all the little girls, Andrew, Miss Blimpstein will make you stand in the corner and let them throw spitballs at you."

"You'll get to do all kinds of fascinating things, Andrew — such as galloping around the room to music, cutting out dolls, and learning to draw and color little white lambs in green grass."

"What do you mean you think you'll drive him to school every day, Madge? You'll not only spoil him—you'll stunt his growth. Let him walk. It'll do him good."

"Mom, I'm not going to have Andrew tagging along after me to school every day. What'll the other guys in the third grade think if I gotta stop every few steps to let my baby brother catch up with me?"

"If you wipe your nose on the sleeve of your sweater, Andrew, Miss Blimpstein will make you drink ink instead of milk for your lunch."

"Now quit blubbering, Andrew. I insist you wear short pants to kindergarten. You look so darling in them. You can have long pants when you start first grade."

"No, you can't take the dog with you . . . or the cat . . . or your turtle . . . or any other pet. You just take yourself, understand?"

"If you're a really good boy, you'll be rewarded. You may be permitted to beat the black-board erasers."

"You don't have to know how to read and write by recess time, Andrew. But if you haven't learned how to be the end of the first day, Miss Blimpstein will send you to the principal's office and he'll put you in an automatic spanking machine that whacks you 150 times a minute."

Retired Methodist Minister Thomas M. Ricketts, died at his home in Ashville at the age of 87.

Memorial bells were presented to the vestry of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church by retired Lutheran Pastor Rev. Jacob Barthelmas, S. Court St., dedicated in memory of his deceased wife, mother and mother-in-law.

Field corn cutting started in the county on the Kermit Thomas farm, Routes 22 and 104. Dry weather had ripened the crop and resulted in earlier cutting.

Nelson A. Valentine, Abernethy Ave., died from injuries received in a dive from a tree into Scioto creek along the Kingston Pike where he and companions were swimming. He was the second victim of a diving accident which occurred under the same circumstances in the same location.

In direct opposition to the ruling of Pickaway County Board of Education, the board of Muhlenberg school adopted a resolution to send high school pupils to Jackson Twp. School at Fox. The county board had ruled that Muhlenberg upperclassmen attend Monroe school. An injunction had been obtained to prevent the move.

Scioto Twp. Board of Education voted unanimously to operate the one-room school in Orient, the only one in the county, for another year despite the fact that no state aid would be provided.

A Crosley car, taken from the dealer Ben Gordon for a supposed trial run, was recovered in New York by Brooklyn police.

Circleville's budget requirements for the upcoming year totaled $58,747.59, up approximately $6,500 from the current year. Restoration of depression pay cuts for Berger Hospital employees was included in the appropriation ordinance.

John Ammer of 141 Pleasant St., was televised in the GE television studio while visiting the New York World's Fair. The telecast was viewed by guests in a receiving studio across the auditorium.

Four Scioto Twp. youths lost their clothing and bedding in a fire that burned the tent in which they were living while at the Ohio State Fair. The boys, all from Commercial Point-Orient communities were Robert and Russell Rodgers, James Sheets and Dwight Haughton.

Rainfall for the month of August totaled .43, less than one-half inch.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal regulators of business certainly have enough problems today, not only with the industries they watch but because they are being watched also by critics such as Ralph Nader and others.

Nevertheless, here are a couple more problems that Washington may have to handle in greater numbers: reciprocity in buying and selling, the "you buy from me, I buy from you" syndrome; and power concentration in the stock market.

First reciprocity.

A large company selling a broad line of products wishes to diversify even more. It looks the field over and decides to buy into a smaller company, one of many companies that make a similar product and with which the larger company trades.

The interest is only a minority one, but the thought occurs to the heads of both companies that, since they are part of one big family now, the large one should buy only from the smaller one, regardless of quality and price.

It seems reasonable, at least from a selfish and narrow point of view. The regulators, however, are committed to taking a broad view of the market place. Reciprocity, the government has said time and time again, unfairly limits competition and injures the competitive opportunities of other companies.

Now here's the rub. A surge seems to be under way in corporate purchases of minority interests in other companies. W. T. Grimm & Co., management consulting firm, reports 2,815 outright mergers in the first six months of this year. But it estimates two to three times as many minority purchases.

Will these minority purchases lead to reciprocity? Perhaps not in great numbers. But the already overworked regulators are going to have to watch the trend nevertheless, because they can't be sure unless they check.

The issue of power concentration in the stock market is largely one for the Securities and Exchange Commission. Power is being concentrated, there is no argument about that. The question, again, is whether competition is reduced.

Consider the situation in which some mutual fund management companies find themselves these days. Because they wish to reach all segments of the market, these managers come up with different funds for different purposes.

There are conservative funds, speculative funds, income funds, capital gains funds and so on. Once a good mutual fund salesman sizes you up there's a very good chance he will produce a fund that suits your purposes.

The question of competition comes up in the buying and selling of stocks by the funds which, in the tradition of the market place, should try to outwit each other. But do they nevertheless succumb to temptation?

It's a very difficult thing to prove that the portfolio manager of one fund doesn't communicate his trading plans with the manager of another fund in the same stable, especially since they draw their paychecks from the same source.

It is equally difficult to believe that, in the interests of profits and in reducing losses, such activities do not take place.

The importance of the situation is underscored by the tendency of funds to be grouped under one management. Few management companies today are content with just one entry in the mutual fund derby.

Mission: Impossible

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At first blush, the Mission seemed indeed impossible: for a television series to carry on without two of its most important stars. But the show is going on with no apparent loss of vitality.

That is the word from Bruce Geller, the man who conceived and oversees "Mission: Impossible." The imaginative series has captured millions of viewers, several Emmies and critical acclaim, if not the loyalty of two of its original cast members, Martin Landau and Barbara Bain.

Both have cut out after three seasons, Miss Bain delivering her kiss-off in explicit terms at the Emmy awards in June. The reasons for the departures of the married pair are clouded in controversy, and her decision is being contested by lawyers for the producing company, Paramount.

"I can't say anything about it; I'm the guy who's caught in the middle," said the youthful, athletic-looking Geller in his studio office.

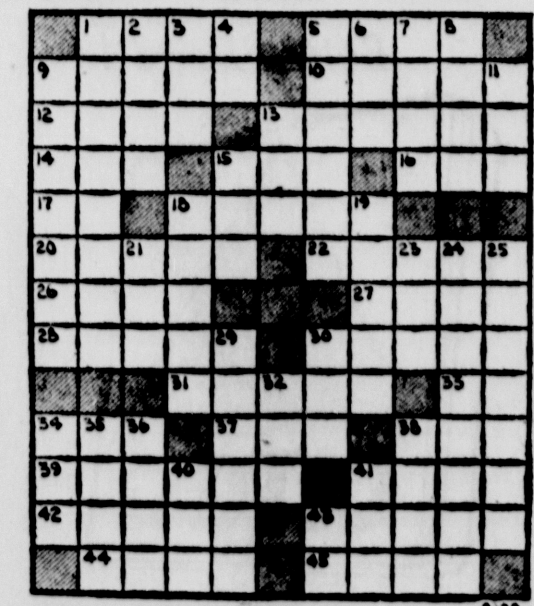

But he is every inventive—he also oversees "Mannix"—and is preparing three pilot films for CBS and has a three-picture contract with Cinema Center Films. Geller solved Landau's departure by enlisting Leonard Nimoy, formerly the pointed-eared Mr. Spock of "Star Trek."

"At this point we have no running lady in 'Mission,'" said Geller. "We have used guest stars like Sally Ann Howes, Lee Meriwether, and Alexandra Hay—with her clothes on (Miss Hay has done nude scenes in films). Some of them may repeat, but so far we're planning no replacement for Barbara."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The redhead with the showgirl's figure was taking an afternoon dip in her pool and making a good effort at keeping a stiff upper lip: the first bird was about to leave the nest.

Lucie Desiree Arnaz, who was 18 last month, moved today into her own apartment. Her bachelor-girl quarters are not far from home, but for Lucille Ball, as for any parent, it is an important milestone.

Little Lucie was born shortly before the premier of "I Love Lucy" in 1951 and grew up with the series. Now with 16-year-old Desi IV, who was almost born on the show, they are starting a second season co-starring on camera as Lucy's children.

Lucille climbed out of the pool, into a terrycloth robe and began reflecting about bringing up children in a show business family.

"I wanted mine in the show because I thought it would teach them something, help them to decide what they wanted to do," she said. "And I think it has."

Lucille Ball is a fine comedienne but it must never be forgotten that she is also a business woman who as president of Desilu learned about the practical side of television.

"From the beginning I wanted to keep them in the show for three years—that's enough for experience and enough to build up enough shows for syndica-tion later. I wanted them in the series for the same reason I want them out of it after three years. Then they can decide what comes next."

She hopes it will be college for both if they want it. Lucie, soft drink can in hand, joined her mother to report glowingly the results of a session with the wallpaper man at the new apartment.

"She's just about stripped this place and her father's house at Del Mar to furnish it," said her mother proudly. "She's handling the whole thing herself."

The comedienne brushed off almost carelessly questions about the roughest competition in her TV career from "Laugh-In." Her own show, however, has stayed high on the Nielsen charts. This coming season Lucy and company will move out of the studio to make shows in distant spots.

"It gives the show a new look and does something for the performers," Miss Ball said. "We did two shows at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. The weather was murderous—rain, snow, hail, sleet—you could see hail stones bouncing off people's heads. We just kept on working through it for five hours. It doesn't show on the screen as much as we thought." The two episodes will open the new Lucy season on CBS Sept. 22.

The Ball base is the Beverly Hills home in which the children grew up, and the studio she once owned. Lucy and second husband Gary Morton have a week-end retreat in Palm Springs and are looking for a mountain home.

"Gary and the children are always asking me what I want, and the other day I told them," said Lucy. "I want a lodge, on a mountain, in the trees. I want a place with privacy, deep woods, rough beams and where you can chop wood."

Miss Ball wants to chop wood? "No, Gary and Desi," she said.

Gary, sitting close by, did not look enthusiastic, but smiled gamely. Lucy may like the rustic life but he prefers golf and tinkering with antique autos.

Supersonic Plane Subsidies Hung Up On 'Noise Factor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe says unresolved questions about sonic booms and domestic priorities have slowed a White House decision on further subsidies for a supersonic transport plane.

"Until I am satisfied and the President is satisfied about the noise factor and a few other situations, plus the cost in relation to some of the other domestic problems, I don't think you will see the President make a decision here," Volpe said.

The former Massachusetts governor was interviewed by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., on the congressman's weekly radio broadcast.

Volpe's recommendation on financing further SST development has been on President Nixon's desk since spring.

The government already has spent $600 million for research and design study on the 1,800 mile-an-hour, 298-passenger plane. At least another $600 million in federal subsidies will be needed for the Boeing Corp. to build and test fly two prototype aircraft.

Boeing's 2,000-man SST team is subsisting on $6 million a month in unspent appropriations from 1967.

Volpe said the only reason a government subsidy "would be considered at all is the fact that America must remain in the leadership position, whether it is in airplane manufacturing or whether it is in shipbuilding or in any other area." This is important, he said, to America's balance of trade payments with the rest of the world.

Congress appropriated no new money for the trouble-plagued SST last year and President Nixon postponed recommending any money this year until the final design was approved. Boeing cleared the design hurdle last spring.

Congressional opponents of the project say the government should not further subsidize the aircraft industry. They contend the money could be better used for pressing domestic needs.

The critics also complain about the sonic boom that would be caused by supersonic flights.

Federal Aviation Administration officials say the boom problem is overrated and the SST would fly only at subsonic speeds over land.

Junior High Assignments Completed

The schedule for the Circleville Junior High has been completed. Principal J. L. Chilcote announced that a record high enrollment is expected for the school this year.

All seventh grade students are to report to the auditorium on the first floor by 8:15 a.m.

All eighth grade students should report to one of the following rooms on the second floor — 205, 210, 211, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219 or 220.

Seventh and eighth grade students will receive their home room assignments and a brief orientation, then follow a regular schedule for Wednesday.

All ninth grade students will report to their home rooms as follows: A — Br. Room 101; Bu — E. Room 103; F — Hal. Room 104; Han — Ki. Room 201; Ko — M. Room 202; N — Ro. Room 204; Ru — S. Room 4; T — Z. Room 7.

Parents and students are reminded that Wednesday will be a full day of school. The cafeteria will be in operation and classes will dismiss at 3:20 p.m.

Top-level Department of Transportation officials believe the single biggest barrier to further SST money is the President's concern that additional spending on the project might fuel inflation.

Boeing officials in Washington say the President must decide soon or the company will have to dismantle its SST team in December.

SENTENCE SEPT. 23—Grant B. Cooper (above), a defense attorney for Sirhan B. Cooper, 66, admitted unlawful possession of secret grand jury transcripts dealing with the Friars Club card cheating trial last year.

Escanaba Fights To Save 'Clean Air'

ESCANABA, Mich. (AP) — The air in this northern Michigan community carries the fragrance of balsam fir.

Escanaba boasts that it is the cleanest air in the nation, and a group of residents is fighting to keep it that way. The group fears that a proposed kraft paper mill is about to smell up the whole town.

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air has been formed to fight the mill project.

The mill, planned by Consolidated Paper Co., will produce sulfate pulp from wood chips.

A sulfate pulp mill, says John T. Walbridge, a director of the Citizens Committee, smells like "rotten eggs, rotten cabbages, skunks and who the hell knows."

Given the right, or wrong, weather conditions, Walbridge adds, you can smell a sulfate pulp mill 65 miles away.

Officials of Consolidated Paper say odor control devices will be incorporated into the plant and that under normal conditions the smell will be confined to the mill area.

Still, plant manager Oliver Christiansen concedes: "There has never been a kraft mill built that didn't create an odor."

Cooler Air Nears Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Late summer sultriness steamed the nation's midlands again today but cooler weather seeped over the northern Rockies and offered prospects of relief in the plains.

Thunderstorms dampened scattered areas from the Texas coast into the Southwest. Occasionally heavy showers also fell in the northern Great Lakes region Thursday night.

Clear skies were the rule, however, for most of the country from the Pacific Northwest to the Middle Atlantic states.

Temperatures again remained in the 70s overnight through most of the Great Plains and Midwest.

The mercury soared past 100 Thursday from the Nebraska panhandle to south-central North Dakota. Philip, S.D., registered 105, only 4 degrees lower than the California desert communities of Blythe, Imperial and Palm Springs.

Cooler air spilling through the Rockies dropped temperatures into the 40s in some interior portions of the Pacific Northwest overnight.

ics Science Research Center of the State University of New York.

"This," said Henderson, "is the cleanest place we've found." Determined to keep it that way, the Citizens Committee asked the paper company to agree to shut the mill down whenever a selected group of smellers decided the stench was at nuisance level. The company declined.

The committee then asked the country board of supervisors for an ordinance requiring shutdown when the odor became too obnoxious. The board took no action.

Now Walbridge and his associates plan to draft an ordinance of their own and force its submission to the electorate on a countywide basis.

Construction of the mill, part of a $150 million expansion by Consolidated, is scheduled to begin in 1970.

"We're going to do everything that is technically possible," protests Christiansen.

'Delta Queen' Has New Owner

CINCINNATI (AP) — Greene Line Steamers Inc., operator of "The Delta Queen", only remaining overnight passenger steamer on inland waters, has been sold to Overseas National Airways (ONA) for $1 million, it was announced here today. William Muster, president of Greene Line, said sale of the company will provide financial backing for construction of a new steamer to replace "The Delta Queen." The Queen will go out of service after the 1970 cruise season because she does not meet new federal safety requirements.

The sale has been completed but may need approval from the Civil Aeronautics Board.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Late summer sultriness steamed the nation's midlands again today but cooler weather seeped over the northern Rockies and offered prospects of relief in the plains.

Thunderstorms dampened scattered areas from the Texas coast into the Southwest. Occasionally heavy showers also fell in the northern Great Lakes region Thursday night.

Clear skies were the rule, however, for most of the country from the Pacific Northwest to the Middle Atlantic states.

Temperatures again remained in the 70s overnight through most of the Great Plains and Midwest.

The mercury soared past 100 Thursday from the Nebraska panhandle to south-central North Dakota. Philip, S.D., registered 105, only 4 degrees lower than the California desert communities of Blythe, Imperial and Palm Springs.

Cooler air spilling through the Rockies dropped temperatures into the 40s in some interior portions of the Pacific Northwest overnight.

BCI Experts Testify In Hodges Trial

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI) ballistics expert Steve Molnar and microanalyst Claude Hazen were scheduled to testify today as the prosecution wraps up its case against Mark Hodges.

Hodges, 28, of Beavercreek, is charged with first-degree murder in the October, 1967, slaying of Karen Kern, the 20-year-old niece of Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King. He is being tried in Ashland County Common Pleas Court on a charge of venue from Bowling Green in Wood County due to pre-trial publicity.

There was speculation that all 40 prosecution witnesses including final witness Robert Frazier, an FBI ballistics expert, would conclude their testimony Friday. Thirty-five witnesses have been called so far, 11 of them Thursday.

Charles Bunyca, a fingerprint analyst from BCI, testified Thursday that he examined 32 fingerprints taken from Miss Kern's car. He said none was Hodges' but matched those of Edward Gary Gillmore, identified earlier in the trial as a boy friend of Miss Kern.

Bunyca also said that eight identifiable prints taken from Hodges' car did not include any of Miss Kern's.

The Adult Reading World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pick-away County Public Library offers a variety of books for summertime reading pleasure. A list of suggested books for adult reading will be reviewed weekly for The Herald by the library staff.

"The Three Daughters of Madame Liang" by Pearl Buck. Mrs. Buck is the author of one of the most popular novels of the twentieth century, "The Good Earth," for which she won the Pulitzer Prize in 1931. This is only one of the many novels Mrs. Buck has written about China and the Chinese, for it is a locale and a people known to her from early childhood. The daughter of missionary parents and the wife of a missionary, she again applies her knowledge of China in this new novel.

Madame Liang, unable to tolerate the accepted custom of concubinage in her marriage, has struck out on her own. She has sent her three daughters to America to be educated while she herself operates a fashionable restaurant in Shanghai. Hers is a precarious, capitalistic life under the Communist's regime and she would have her daughters remain safely in America.

But, the new China has need of its young people. First Grace, who is doing research in medicine and then Mercy, married to a scientist, are summoned back to China. Only Joy, who has devoted her talents to the arts, remains in America. This is the background against which each must perform a role in a changing culture. Madame Liang is beaten to death in a shocking climax, still believing that her country's full greatness will return.

"Mysteries of Easter Island," by Francis Maziere. Easter Island, rising in sheer volcanic cliffs swept by Antarctic wind in the South Pacific, nearly three thousand miles from the coast of Chile and from Tahiti, dotted with giant stone statues, is one of the loneliest and strangest places in the world.

Maziere, an ethnologist, and his wife, a Tahitian by birth, lived in close association with the Easter Islanders for nine months, sharing their lives and their legend. Because of her Polynesian ancestry, Maziere's wife, particularly had a close relationship with the people and they revealed to her many traditions and secret family caves.

Maziere has correlated the expedition's findings with the work of earlier researchers and has found a clue to the island's undeciphered ideographic script. But the first race, before the statue-building Polynesians, remains a mystery.

"Theodora" by Noel Gerson. Writing under the name Samuel Edwards, this prolific producer of historical fiction presents the story of Theodora against the strife-torn, imperial background of sixth-century Constantinople. Here evolves the absorbing and ironically tender life of the courtesan who became an Empress. Mr. Gerson tells his story with all the action and intrigue that surrounded the marriage of a commoner to a future Emperor.

"Six-Horse Hitch," by Janice Holt Giles. Janice Holt Giles was born in Arkansas and reared in Oklahoma. She became a Kentuckian by marriage and it is for her novels of the Kentucky Appalachians that she is, perhaps, best known. "Shady Grove" being the most recent. "40 Acres and No Mule," written in 1952 is an autobiographical account of this period of her life.

This story, "Six-Horse Hitch," moves the pioneering family of Hannah Fowler further West to the area of the great overland stage routes. Starr Fowler was nineteen when he climbed to the box of a main-line stage and threaded the reins of a six-horse hitch between his fingers. The time was 1840, when the discovery of gold in California and Colorado turned the land beyond the Missouri into the "Golden West." The fictional characters are intermingled with such historical figures as the stage line king, Ben Holladay and Jack Slade, a division agent turned outlaw.

PARIS (AP) — Fall and winter fashions will most certainly shock, delight or distress someone—either the wearers or their male friends—in the matter of hemlines and spaceage features.

Buyers left the Paris showings loaded with models they will spring on the foreign public.

This year there is no overnight switch such as there was with Christian Dior's new look in 1947. The long-skirt groups in nearly everyone's collection received mixed reactions. It won't be easy to go back to them. Too many girls have pretty legs. Too many men enjoy looking at them. But the handwriting is on the wall.

On the other hand, ladies, pants are here to stay. They go into evening with beautifully jeweled tunics. They step forth for day topped by fur-lined chausses with turtle-necks, knitted sleeves, and hoods or knit caps, matching gloves and ankle boots. They will be seen in the city, worn with daytime tunics or under fun furs and leather.

The word "freedom" has become involved in fashion. Courreges wants to do away with skirts and "liberate" woman's bosom, already having liberated her legs with his rompers and see-through pants.

Jumpsuits are as important as pants. They are borrowed from the astronauts. Man on the moon has obsessed many pace-setters in couture. Cardin sees a new era in dress, a new dimension for living. So do Feraud, Courreges, Ungaro.

Most of the designers, however, promote woman. Chanel says she loves beauty. Her collection has never been stronger or more convincing. Wonderful hand-loomed lightweight plaids, or more convincing. Wonderful tweeds, checks and tartans are teamed to soft colors. Her famous little suit becomes a "costume." The top is now attached to the dress.

Givency is another promoter of elegance. He uses fabulous fabrics and keeps his lines controlled and beautiful. He shows a pants suit in Bianchini's stretch leopard silk print under a brown fur coat.

His prim English governess look, with the elongated cardigan or lacoste shirt top worn under slender belted tunic suits, is making history.

There are several ways to look this winter, come cocktail time. Dr. March's daughters, Jo and Beth of "Little Women," are one way to endorse turn of the century charm. Or you may be a Gypsy, come evening, in chiffon.

Or you may step out of a Persian miniature or Stravinsky's Petroushka in the fabulous embroidered coats, glittering with Oriental splendor, as shown at Dior.

All designers are having fun with furs. Quality is no obstacle. The finest mink steps forth, dyed orange, to edge a tweed. Sleek broadtail is grapefruit yellow at Ricci's in a smooth coat. Every pastel, plus red, is shown by Givency in the lamb family and bear.

Believe it or not, silver fox is back in stoles, borders and linings. So get them out of mothballs, girls, you'll be right in the swing.

The Adult Reading World

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pick-away County Public Library offers a variety of books for summertime reading pleasure. A list of suggested books for adult reading will be reviewed weekly for The Herald by the library staff.

"The Three Daughters of Madame Liang" by Pearl Buck. Mrs. Buck is the author of one of the most popular novels of the twentieth century, "The Good Earth," for which she won the Pulitzer Prize in 1931. This is only one of the many novels Mrs. Buck has written about China and the Chinese, for it is a locale and a people known to her from early childhood. The daughter of missionary parents and the wife of a missionary, she again applies her knowledge of China in this new novel.

Madame Liang, unable to tolerate the accepted custom of concubinage in her marriage, has struck out on her own. She has sent her three daughters to America to be educated while she herself operates a fashionable restaurant in Shanghai. Hers is a precarious, capitalistic life under the Communist's regime and she would have her daughters remain safely in America.

But, the new China has need of its young people. First Grace, who is doing research in medicine and then Mercy, married to a scientist, are summoned back to China. Only Joy, who has devoted her talents to the arts, remains in America. This is the background against which each must perform a role in a changing culture. Madame Liang is beaten to death in a shocking climax, still believing that her country's full greatness will return.

"Mysteries of Easter Island," by Francis Maziere. Easter Island, rising in sheer volcanic cliffs swept by Antarctic wind in the South Pacific, nearly three thousand miles from the coast of Chile and from Tahiti, dotted with giant stone statues, is one of the loneliest and strangest places in the world.

Maziere, an ethnologist, and his wife, a Tahitian by birth, lived in close association with the Easter Islanders for nine months, sharing their lives and their legend. SMOKESTACKS

All around the world they marvel at American industry. Factory chimneys send great clouds of smoke skyward as we produce more and still more. There seems to be no end to man's progress, whether here on earth or out in the vast mystery of space.

In spite of all we do, there is still so much that we cannot do. For all our power, we are still frail and vulnerable. God has given us many capabilities, but we were never meant to "go it" entirely alone. To think that we need nothing beyond ourselves is not self-confidence—it is brashness.

There are moments when we all need to look into a special kind of mirror, by which we may re-examine our lives. Such a mirror may be found in church where God's word, if we really listen to it, can help show us the truth.

Why not go and listen in your church next Sunday?

SMOKESTACKS

All around the world they marvel at American industry. Factory chimneys send great clouds of smoke skyward as we produce more and still more. There seems to be no end to man's progress, whether here on earth or out in the vast mystery of space.

In spite of all we do, there is still so much that we cannot do. For all our power, we are still frail and vulnerable. God has given us many capabilities, but we were never meant to "go it" entirely alone. To think that we need nothing beyond ourselves is not self-confidence—it is brashness.

There are moments when we all need to look into a special kind of mirror, by which we may re-examine our lives. Such a mirror may be found in church where God's word, if we really listen to it, can help show us the truth.

Why not go and listen in your church next Sunday?

Wapakoneta Makes Plans For Mammoth Parking Job

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP)—Anticipating an overflow crowd here Sept. 6 for astronaut Neil

Armstrong's homecoming, celebrations planners have made arrangements to park 40,000 cars in lots on the edge of the city.

The homecoming executive committee said 19 of 24 parking areas will be free of charge.

Thirty-five buses will shuttle visitors from the parking lots into Wapakoneta proper, starting at 7:30 a.m., the committee said.

Citizens of this Auglaize County community of 7,000, home town of the moonwalking astronaut, also have formed a "residents committee" to aid people coming here for the celebration.

Local residents will wear badges saying, "I am a Wapakoneta citizen — may I help you?"

Meanwhile, contributions for the $1 million Neil Armstrong Museum to be established here continue to come in, the latest being a $10,000 gift from the Wapakoneta Machine Co.

The community is trying to raise $500,000 to match an identical amount that will be provided by the state.

Big Dump Fire At Portsmouth

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Firemen brought a spectacular dump fire under control Thursday more than 12 hours after it began.

During the height of the fire, burning auto tires and other debris sent flames shooting as high as 100 feet. Heavy, foul black smoke hung over the city.

Business places near the West Side dump were evacuated at one stage when it was feared they were threatened by flames creeping underground.

The fire was being investigated by the state fire marshal's office.

Ohio Slayer's Appeal Turned Down By Court

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An appeal by Clitus Moorehead of Dayton, sentenced to die for an April 1968 holdup-slashing, has been rejected by the Second District Court of Appeals.

Moorehead, convicted of murdering Dayton motel operator Rena Streitenberger, originally was scheduled to die in the electric chair last April 15. But the execution was stayed pending his appeals.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law. Here is another in the series.

Q. — How long must I serve on active duty if I volunteer for induction rather than wait to be drafted?

A. — You must serve the same length of time as the non-volunteer inductee, which is twenty-four consecutive months, unless you are released sooner, transferred or discharged.

Q. — I am a college student with a II-S deferment. If I should enlist in the Army Reserve, will I retain my student deferment?

A. — When your local board receives evidence that you have enlisted, you will then be reclassified from Class II-S to Class I-D (member of a reserve component).

Q. — I am scheduled to graduate from college in two weeks and am still classified II-S. Despite this, I have received a notice to report for a physical examination. Can a man be ordered to report for a physical examination even though he is not classified I-A?

A. — The local board may mail an Order to Report for Armed Forces Physical Examination to any registrant who is classified in a class other than Class I-A, Class I-A-O, or Class I-O if it determines that his induction may occur shortly.

Serviceman, 21, Providing Kidney For Brother, 16

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Tommy Yeagley, who lives with his widowed mother near the tiny Wayne County crossroads community of West Canaan, is to receive a new kidney at Akron City Hospital next Tuesday.

The youngest of Mrs. Edna Yeagley's 11 children, Tommy is to receive a kidney from his brother Michael, 21, who flew home from his Army post in Germany to serve as a donor.

Tommy's father died in 1964. He is the only child of the family still living at home, where he and his mother live on $198 a month in Social Security payments.

The Wayne County teen-ager has had recurring serious illnesses since contracting hepatitis in 1964 and his own kidneys were removed earlier this year. Doctors said they were shrunken and no longer functioning.

Cincy Murder Suspects Held

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police will try to extradite a man and a woman from North Carolina Friday wanted in connection with the murder of a mother of nine children here and the wounding of her brother-in-law.

Walter Walls, 35, and Brenda Anders, alias Shirley Walls, 27, were arrested Thursday in Mocksville, N. C., near Winston Salem, for Cincinnati police on charges of first degree murder.

Police said they are wanted in connection with the murder of Walls' estranged wife, Mrs. Anna Walls, 36, gunned down in her front yard Aug. 17.

Wounded in the fray was Earl Walls, her brother-in-law.

Vocational Education Needs Stressed By National Council

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The National Advisory Council on Vocational Education has criticized the nation's educational system as one stressing college training while spending more money on remedial manpower training programs than it does on vocational education.

The 21-member council chaired by Cleveland attorney Hugh Calkins, said in a three-page annual report released Thursday:

"We believe that the reform of American schools the nation so desperately needs will not come about if the federal government continues to invest nearly $4 in remedial manpower programs for each $1 it invests in preventive vocational programs. If the federal government will substantially support the additional initial cost of educating the youth for employment, we believe that the financial, personal and social costs of unemployment can be dramatically reduced."

The report cited the attitude that "vocational education is designed for somebody else's children" is at the heart of the national school problem.

The council created last year by Congress, said it believes many people are underemployed because of a lack of proper training at the high school level. "In the 1980s it will still be true that fewer than 20 per cent of our job opportunities will require a four-year college degree," the report said.

Where earnings are concerned, the report said: "Plumbers, carpenters and electricians make more than many school superintendents and college presidents. . . .

"For society, as a whole, educating youth for employment costs less than educating them for the college they will never reach and providing remedial training thereafter," the report said.

Cincy Murder Suspects Held

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police will try to extradite a man and a woman from North Carolina Friday wanted in connection with the murder of a mother of nine children here and the wounding of her brother-in-law.

Walter Walls, 35, and Brenda Anders, alias Shirley Walls, 27, were arrested Thursday in Mocksville, N. C., near Winston-Salem, for Cincinnati police on charges of first degree murder.

Police said they are wanted in connection with the murder of Walls' estranged wife, Mrs. Anna Walls, 36, gunned down in her front yard Aug. 17. Wounded in the fray was Earl Walls, her brother-in-law.

Vocational Education Needs Stressed By National Council

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The National Advisory Council on Vocational Education has criticized the nation's educational system as one stressing college training while spending more money on remedial manpower training programs than it does on vocational education.

The 21-member council chaired by Cleveland attorney Hugh Calkins, said in a three-page annual report released Thursday:

"We believe that the reform of American schools the nation so desperately needs will not come about if the federal government continues to invest nearly $4 in remedial manpower programs for each $1 it invests in preventive vocational programs. If the federal government will substantially support the additional initial cost of educating the youth for employment, we believe that the financial, personal and social costs of unemployment can be dramatically reduced."

The report cited the attitude that "vocational education is designed for somebody else's children" is at the heart of the national school problem.

The council created last year by Congress, said it believes many people are underemployed because of a lack of proper training at the high school level. "In the 1980s it will still be true that fewer than 20 per cent of our job opportunities will require a four-year college degree," the report said.

Where earnings are concerned, the report said: "Plumbers, carpenters and electricians make more than many school superintendents and college presidents. . . . For society, as a whole, educating youth for employment costs less than educating them for the college they will never reach and providing remedial training thereafter," the report said.

George Weller Wins B Flight At Upper Lansdowne Links

'B' FLIGHT — Curt Hix, left, congratulates George Weller, who won the 'B' Flight title at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links Thursday night with a 91. Hix finished third with a 96. Jim Riley was second and Jerry Pritchard fourth in the flight.

George Weller carded a par 5 on the 18th hole at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links Thursday to win the B Flight championship.

Jerry Pritchard, who finished fourth in the match, had a 2 stroke lead after nine holes with a 45. Weller and Curt Hix shot 47s on the front nine holes and Jim Riley had a 48.

Pritchard knocked himself from contention with three triple bogeys and a double bogey in a row. Riley and Weller were tied after 10 holes.

Weller took the lead on the 12th hole, lost it on 13, parred 14 for a stroke and went two up with a par on 15.

Both Riley and Weller finished the back nine in 44s. Hix had a 49 and Pritchard had a 54.

Melnyk Leads U.S. Amateur By 3 Strokes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Any way you look at it, Georgia and Florida thus far have a tight hold on the 69th annual U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

A native Georgian who attends the University of Florida, Steve Melnyk, leads the tournament by three strokes. A native of Florida, who pursues his studies at the University of Georgia, Allen Miller, is second.

The 235-pound Melnyk shot a two-over-par 35-38-73 Thursday for a 36-hole total of 143, one over par for the two rounds. Miller posted the best round of the tournament, a 33-36—69 for a 146.

Dallas Cowboys Settle Texas Pro Title

By TED MEIER
The Dallas Cowboys still are the pro football champions of the great state of Texas.

Their reign was threatened for a spell by the Houston Oilers before 55,310 in the Astrodome Thursday night, but the NFL Cowboys rallied in the second half and pulled out a 14-11 exhibition victory over their AFL rivals.

Quarterback Craig Morton passed 34 yards to Lance Rentzel for a third period touchdown that erased a 3-0 Houston halftime lead. In the last period, Morton engineered another TD. He passed 34 yards to Bob Hayes on the Oilers three and rookie Calvin Hill plunged over on the next play.

A 30-yard field goal by Roy Gerela gave the Oilers their early lead, but they didn't score again until the closing minutes when Don Trull tossed a three-yard pass to Jim Beirne, then passed to Hoyle Granger for a two-point conversion.

Morton finished the game with 14 completions for 218 yards in 32 passes.

The game kicked off a busy Labor Day weekend schedule that has all of the 26 teams in the NFL-AFL in action.

The Kansas City Chiefs, unbeaten in four starts like the Baltimore Colts, play their NFL rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, tonight for the pro title of the great state of Missouri.

"I think Chuck Noll would like to show the 'old boy' how good he is," said Brown Thursday as the Bengals finished up the second last day of the seven week camp at Wilmington College.

Noll, who played linebacker for Brown when he coached the Cleveland Browns in the National League, was appointed at Pittsburgh this year.

Brown, coaching the Cincinnati team in its second year in the American Football League, knocked off the Steelers in an exhibition game last year, 19-3, at Morgantown, W. Va.

"They have a lot to remember," said Brown. "The Bengals are taking Saturday's exhibition game very seriously. The offense ran a few Steeler plays at half speed Thursday to give the defense a close look."

"We want to play the first group more than half the game this week," Brown said, "but in a couple of places I don't know who is number one."

One of those places is the blocking back who will run opposite Paul Robinson. Clem Turner was playing Thursday but Essex Johnson and Jess Phillips have been in there too.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook definitely has the starting assignment and has been drilling passes well all week.

Brown said he feels the Steelers are better than last year but indicated they are not as good as the Kansas City Chiefs who pasted the Bengals 23-7 two weeks ago.

"No team in football is as strong as the Chiefs," Brown said. "If you don't believe it, ask the Rams." Kansas City beat Los Angeles 42-14 last weekend."

Stake Derby At Arlington To Run First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For the first time in thoroughbred racing a $100,000 stake, the American Derby, will be run as the first race on the card at Arlington Park Saturday.

This innovation as part of the big holiday Labor Day weekend came about with the shift from daytime to night racing at the Chicago track, starting with tonight's program.

Originally the Derby had been listed to go off at midnight, EDT, Saturday night, but when Arthur B. Hancock, Jr. protested, the track management promised the race would be run in daylight.

This was done by making the Derby the first event on the card with post time at 8 p.m., EDT.

Hancock is the owner of the favored entry of Dike and Jay Ray in the field of 10 3-year-olds for the 1.18 mile stake.

Dike, to be ridden by Willie Shoemaker, is the top weight at 126 pounds. Jay Ray, with Earlie Fires up, carries 119.

The American Derby tops Saturday's national program.

Elsewhere there is the $50,000 Gazelle Stakes at Belmont Park the $30,000 Kelly-Olympic Handicap at Atlantic City, the $60,000 Del Mar Debutante and the $21,000 Keene Handicap at Rockingham Park.

OSU Begins 'Glory' Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pictures and footfalls were snapped today as Ohio State's national champions began to prepare for another season.

Following a morning picture-taking session, the Bucks were to hold their first drill and then begin twice-a-day workouts leading up to the Sept. 27 opener against TCU.

Meanwhile, George Statten, OSU ticket director, said all five home games are sold out and Ohio State is sure to lead the nation in football attendance again this season for the 18th time in the last 19 years.

Statten said he had to return 8,000 season ticket orders worth $30 each.

Ohio State's 1969 schedule: Sept. 27—TCU; Oct. 4 — at Washington; Oct. 11—Michigan State; Oct. 18 — at Minnesota; Oct. 25—Illinois; Nov. 1 — at Northwestern; Nov. 8—Wisconsin; Nov. 15—Purdue; Nov. 22 — at Michigan.

All home games start at 1:30 p.m.

Westfall Mustangs Have Potential To Defend SVC Grid Championship

By DAVE AMEY
Herald Sports Writer
The Westfall Mustang grid season could be a rosey one for fans in the area. But as new head coach, Bill Vance says, "We have the potential, a lot of potential. We also have a lot of inexperience."

Vance is taking over the helm of a team that won the Scioto Valley Conference last year and proved a power house in the state.

And that could be the problem.

Former coach Dave Katterhenrich was aware of his team's great potential last year, and used it to the hilt to forge a championship team.

BUT most of the player's used in the campaign are lost this year through graduation.

Vance is now faced with a giant rebuilding task. He must replace Jack Moore and Tony Lightie, two of the best ends in the SVC last year, All-Ohio halfback John Furniss and his running-mate, Gene Carfrey, starting center, Rick Redman, and starting guards Bruce Sykes and Don Greenwood.

But Vance is blessed with a good nucleus for a rebuilding or even championship year.

Returning starters from last year's squad include quarterback Greg Bigam, power fullback Chris Schein, giant tackle Tim Dewey and Marlin Howard and five other returning lettermen.

The bulk of the Mustang lead will be carried by players who saw limited action last season because of the exceptionally fine crop of ball players.

The Mustangs have scrimmaged twice this year and came out on the short end of scores both times.

In their first scrimmage last Saturday, they went to Mt. Sterling, but were out-scored by Coach Dean Porter's charges 4-1.

Reports from the Mustang camp indicate the defense made several mental mistakes that cost the contest.

Afterwards, Porter, who coached both Vance and Mustang assistant coach Denny Morris, had nothing but praise for the Westfall unit.

Wednesday, Westfall hosted Madison South, but again were outscored 3-1.

Vance reports that the offense was exceptional in the loss, averaging over five yards a try. The offense gained 366 yards in 60 plays from scrimmage.

Operating from a power set, quarterback Bigam rattled the Madison South defense with passes. Outstanding receivers in the contest were Tom Hawker and Jay Writsell.

WESTFALL COACH — New Mustang head grid coach Bill Vance is a graduate of The Plains High School. If the players respond to his spirit, desire and positive manner, Westfall will be the team to beat in the Scioto Valley Conference this year.

Two long pass plays by Madison proved the difference in the game. The Mustang defense begrudged Madison South an average of two yards per carry.

The scrimmages pointed up the prospect of several fine players who are patiently being groomed by the coaching staff for possible starting rolls.

Dave Eitel, a 132-pound freshman halfback is felt by the staff to be a coming running back. He has speed and power and only needs experience to land a starting roll.

He compliments a fine backfield. Led by quarterback Greg Bigam and veteran running back Schein from last year's squad, Eitel is expected to see action at the halfback slot.

The offensive line lacks experience, due to the graduation of two veteran guards. Tackles Tim Dewey at 272 pounds and Marlin Howard at 240 will be expected to bolster much of the duty.

Steve Nevil, a junior letter-winner, will handle the center position and hard-hitting junior Mike Funk will hold down one of the guard slots.

THE defense will be headed by rough senior Roger Peart, who turned the same task last year.

The Mustangs will defend their SVC title in a nine game schedule starting Sept. 5 at Berne Union.

New head coach Bill Vance is a graduate of Mt. Sterling High School where he played the line under Dean Porter.

He attended Wilmington College and played football there.

Vance and Morris comprise a coaching staff that is hard working and dedicated to football.

Red Sox Booze Ban Posted

BOSTON (AP) — Prohibition is just a name from the past for members of the Boston Red Sox, but it's suddenly striking home.

The verdict is out: no more booze on flights between cities. And that goes for players, Manager Dick Williams, the coaches, writers and anyone else traveling on the Red Sox' charter plane.

General Manager Dick O'Connell, a social drinker himself, cracked down Thursday, directing "airlines not to serve hard liquor" to any personnel on Red Sox' chartered flights.

The Red Sox declined to expand on O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and later distributed through copies for traveling baseball writers.

However, players privately criticized stewardesses on United Airlines, which accommodates the Red Sox charters. Most of the Boston players are married and were harsh in attacks, verbally, on some hostesses.

The Associated Press learned that the club's hard liquor ban resulted from an incident aboard a United Airlines flight from San Francisco Aug. 4 after the Red Sox ended a road trip with a lengthy doubleheader at Oakland.

A stewardess allegedly was insulted by a couple of players during the flight to Boston. She reportedly complained to superiors, who relayed the information to O'Connell.

The stewardess, not identified, may have complained to the pilot, captain of the plane. However, none of the Red Sox personnel aboard have any such knowledge.

Reds' Crucial Series Opens

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Reds return home today from a five win and six loss road trip for a crucial 13 game home stand that will in all probability determine the pennant winner in the National League West.

The Reds dropped to third place Thursday after losing to the artful pitching of Ferguson Jenkins '18-11) of the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds took three of four from the Cubs in the series drawing a total of 122,911, an average of 30,728 per game. The crowds brought an all time season attendance record for the Cubs who now have drawn 1,502,422. The previous record was held by the 1929 Cubs who drew 1,485,166.

The Reds will throw the top of its pitching rotation against the St. Louis Cardinals here tonight opening with Jim Maloney, Gary Nolan and Jim Merritt.

The Cardinals will counter with rookie Chuck Taylor, who beat the Reds last time out, Nelson Briles and Bob Gibson.

The Cubs come in Monday, Labor Day, and the hassle between the two ball clubs is expected to continue.

Solo home runs by Billy Williams and Jim Hickman and a single by Glenn Beckert in the fourth that pushed over a third run was all that Ferguson Jenkins needed to defeat Gerry Arrigo, (2-5).

The Reds lone run came in the third when Pete Rose drilled a single to left center scoring Woody Woodward who had bunted safely for the first time this year.

The final score was 3-1.

Detroit Tigers Whip Oakland, 5-3

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
One of Jim Northrup's one-man shows has stolen the spotlight for at least one night from slugging Reggie Jackson.

While Jackson stood by helplessly, Northrup dimmed the lights on Oakland's bid to catch Minnesota by cracking his second homer and sixth hit of the game in the 13th inning Thursday night, sending the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the A's.

The loss, the third in a row for Oakland, dropped the A's 3 1/2 games behind the idle Twins in the only American League race going in the West Division.

Baltimore, the runaway leader in the East, squeezed in another victory with a 4-3 decision over Seattle in 11 innings.

In the only other AL game, Boston tripped Kansas City 9-8 in the afternoon on Tony Conig-liaro's three-run eighth inning homer.

Northrup, who went 6-for-6 against the A's, had stepped onto center stage in 1967 with two grand slam homers in a week and then took on star status last season with two slams in one game, three in a week and four in a month. He added one in the World Series and then helped win it in the seventh game with a two-run triple.

The hard-hitting outfielder didn't get a chance with the bases loaded against the A's, but his solo homer in the second inning and Norm Cash's two-run belt in the seventh got the Tigers into extra innings.

Statten said he had to return 8,000 season ticket orders worth $30 each.

Ohio State's 1969 schedule: Sept. 27—TCU; Oct. 4 — at Washington; Oct. 11—Michigan State; Oct. 18 — at Minnesota; Oct. 25—Illinois; Nov. 1 — at Northwestern; Nov. 8—Wisconsin; Nov. 15—Purdue; Nov. 22 — at Michigan.

All home games start at 1:30 p.m.

IN their first scrimmage last Saturday, they went to Mt. Sterling, but were out-scored by Coach Dean Porter's charges 4-1.

Reports from the Mustang camp indicate the defense made several mental mistakes that cost the contest.

Afterwards, Porter, who coached both Vance and Mustang assistant coach Denny Morris, had nothing but praise for the Westfall unit.

Wednesday, Westfall hosted Madison South, but again were outscored 3-1.

Vance reports that the offense was exceptional in the loss, averaging over five yards a try. The offense gained 366 yards in 60 plays from scrimmage.

Operating from a power set, quarterback Bigam riddled the Madison South defense with passes. Outstanding receivers in the contest were Tom Hawker and Jay Writsell.

WESTFALL COACH — New Mustang head coach Bill Vance is a graduate of The Plains High School. If the players respond to his spirit, desire and positive manner, Westfall will be the team to beat in the Scioto Valley Conference this year.

Westfall Mustangs Have Potential To Defend SVC Grid Championship

By DAVE AMEY
Herald Sports Writer
The Westfall Mustang grid season could be a rose one for fans in the area. But as new head coach, Bill Vance says, "We have the potential, a lot of potential. We also have a lot of inexperience."

Vance is taking over the helm of a team that won the Scioto Valley Conference last year and proved a power house in the state.

And that could be the problem.

Former coach Dave Katterhenrich was aware of his team's great potential last year, and used it to the hilt to forge a championship team.

BUT most of the player's used in the campaign are lost this year through graduation.

Vance is now faced with a giant rebuilding task. He must replace Jack Moore and Tony Lightle, two of the best ends in the SVC last year, All-Ohio halfback John Furniss and his running-mate, Gene Carrey, starting center, Rick Redman, and starting guards Bruce Sykes and Don Greenwood.

But Vance is blessed with a good nucleus for a rebuilding or even championship year.

Returning starters from last year's squad include quarterback Greg Bigam, power fullback Chris Schein, giant tackle Tim Dewey and Marlin Howard and five other returning lettermen.

The bulk of the Mustang load will be carried by players who saw limited action last season because of the exceptionally fine crop of ball players.

The Mustangs have scrimmaged twice this year and came out on the short end of scores both times.

IN their first scrimmage last Saturday, they went to Mt. Sterling, but were out-scored by Coach Dean Porter's charges 4-1.

Reports from the Mustang camp indicate the defense made several mental mistakes that cost the contest.

Afterwards, Porter, who coached both Vance and Mustang assistant coach Denny Morris, had nothing but praise for the Westfall unit.

Wednesday, Westfall hosted Madison South, but again were outscored 3-1.

Vance reports that the offense was exceptional in the loss, averaging over five yards a try. The offense gained 366 yards in 60 plays from scrimmage.

Operating from a power set, quarterback Bigam riddled the Madison South defense with passes. Outstanding receivers in the contest were Tom Hawker and Jay Writsell.

Two long pass plays by Madison proved the difference in the game. The Mustang defense begrudged Madison South an average of two yards per carry.

The scrimmages pointed up the prospect of several fine players who are patiently being groomed by the coaching staff for possible starting roles.

Dave Eitel, a 132-pound freshman halfback is felt by the staff to be a coming running back. He has speed and power and only needs experience to land a starting roll.

He complements a fine backfield. Led by quarterback Greg Bigam and veteran running back Schein from last year's squad, Eitel is expected to see action at the halfback slot.

The offensive line lacks experience, due to the graduation of two veteran guards. Tackles Tim Dewey at 272 pounds and Marlin Howard at 240 will be expected to bolster much of the duty.

Steve Nevil, a junior letter-winner, will handle the center position and hard-hitting junior Mike Funk will hold down one of the guard slots.

THE defense will be headed by rough senior Roger Pearl, who turned the same task last year.

The Mustangs will defend their SVC title in a nine game schedule starting Sept. 5 at Berne Union.

New head coach Bill Vance is a graduate of Mt. Sterling High School where he played the line under Dean Porter.

He attended Wilmington College and played football there.

Vance and Morris comprise a coaching staff that is hard working and dedicated to football.

He believes football to be a fun-filled sport that can instill lasting trademarks in players.

THE Mustang spirit has fallen short, according to Vance, so far in practices.

Westfall is scheduled to play its first home game Sept. 12 against favored SVC team Union.

They host Pickett Sept. 19, travel to Adena Sept. 26, host Logan Elm Oct. 3 and West Jefferson Oct. 10.

Oct. 17 will find the Mustangs in East Clinton Local, and Oct. 24, they will be hosted by Paint Valley.

The final game of the season will have Teays Valley visiting the Mustang field.

Reds' Crucial Series Opens

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Reds return home today from a five win and six loss road trip for a crucial 13 game home stand that will in all probability determine the pennant winner in the National League West.

The Reds dropped to third place Thursday after losing to the artful pitching of Ferguson Jenkins' (18-11) of the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds took three of four from the Cubs in the series drawing a total of 122,911, an average of 30,728 per game. The crowds brought an all time season attendance record for the Cubs who now have drawn 1,502,422. The previous record was held by the 1929 Cubs who drew 1,485,166.

The Reds will throw the top of its pitching rotation against the St. Louis Cardinals here tonight opening with Jim Maloney, Gary Nolan and Jim Merritt.

The Cardinals will counter with rookie Chuck Taylor, who beat the Reds last time out, Nelson Briles and Bob Gibson.

The Cubs come in Monday, Labor Day, and the battle between the two ball clubs is expected to continue.

Solo home runs by Billy Williams and Jim Hickman and a single by Glenn Beckert in the fourth that pushed over a third run was all that Ferguson Jenkins needed to defeat Gerry Arigo, (2-5).

The Reds lone run came in the third when Pete Rose drilled a single to left center scoring Woody Woodward who had bunted safely for the first time this year.

The final score was 3-1.

Local Horses 'Clean Up' At Scioto Downs

Circleville horses "cleaned up" at Scioto Downs last night winning four races and placing in four more.

Jim Mace drove Miracle Ella to show in the first race of the night paying $4.

Wingate Dude, piloted by Mace, paid $11.20, $6.60 and $4.60 as it toured the 5 - 8 mile track in 2:09 in the second event.

Emmett Ebenhack, driving Vyvienne Volo, took second place in the third race and paid $4.20 for a place ticket and $3.40 for a show ticket.

Forrest Short and Jim Mace teamed up in the sixth race and copped first and second place. Sara Ann Scotch, driven by Short, toured the track in 2:05.3 and paid $4.20, $3 and $2.80. Mace's drive, Lady Patrol, paid $4.40 and $3.40.

Mace and Short again teamed up in the next race but switched positions. Win Dea, driven by Mace, went the distance in 2:04 and paid $14.60, $6.20 and $5.20. Short copped second with Roundtown and paid $16.60 for a place ticket and $6.00 for a show ticket.

Mace took the eighth race with Toboso Raider in 2:03.4 and paid $11.40, $5.60 and $3.80.

Driver Mace Has 3 Wins

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Win Dea came from deep in the field—sixth at the head of the stretch—for a photofinish victory in the featured race at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

The win was one of three during the evening for driver Jim Mace of Washington Court House, who also had a second and a third in six starts.

Win Dea paid $14.60, $6.20 and $5.20. Roundtown, who finished second by a head, returned $16.60 and $6.60, while Amater was worth $6.60 for show.

The 4-7 daily double combination of Pride in Law and Wingate Dude paid $31.80. The 4-6 quinella returned $42.90.

Red Sox Booze Ban Posted

BOSTON (AP) — Prohibition is just a name from the past for members of the Boston Red Sox, but it's suddenly striking home.

The verdict is out: no more booze on flights between cities. And that goes for players, Manager Dick Williams, the coaches, writers and anyone else traveling on the Red Sox' charter plane.

General Manager Dick O'Connell, a social drinker himself, cracked down Thursday, directing "airlines not to serve hard liquor" to any personnel on Red Sox' chartered flights.

The Red Sox declined to expand on O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and later distributed through copies for traveling baseball writers.

However, players privately criticized stewardesses on United Airlines, which accommodates the Red Sox charters. Most of the Boston players are married and were harsh in attacks, verbally, on some hostesses.

The Associated Press learned that the club's hard liquor ban resulted from an incident aboard a United Airlines flight from San Francisco Aug. 4 after the Red Sox ended a road trip with a lengthy doubleheader at Oakland.

A stewardess allegedly was insulted by a couple of players during the flight to Boston. She reportedly complained to superiors, who relayed the information to O'Connell.

The stewardess, not identified, may have complained to the pilot, captain of the plane. However, none of the Red Sox personnel aboard have any such knowledge.

Detroit Tigers Whip Oakland, 5-3

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
One of Jim Northrup's one-man shows has stolen the spotlight for at least one night from slugging Reggie Jackson.

While Jackson stood by helplessly, Northrup dimmed the lights on Oakland's bid to catch Minnesota by cracking his second homer and sixth hit of the game in the 13th inning Thursday night, sending the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the A's. The loss, the third in a row for Oakland, dropped the A's 3 1/2 games behind the idle Twins in the only American League race going in the West Division.

Baltimore, the runaway leader in the East, squeezed in another victory with a 4-3 decision over Seattle in 11 innings.

In the only other AL game, Boston tripped Kansas City 9-8 in the afternoon on Tony Conig-liaro's three-run eighth inning homer.

Northrup, who went 6-for-6 against the A's, had stepped onto center stage in 1967 with two grand slam homers in a week and then took on star status last season with two slams in one game, three in a week and four in a month. He added one in the World Series and then helped win it in the seventh game with a two-run triple.

The hard-hitting outfielder didn't get a chance with the bases loaded against the A's, but his solo homer in the second inning and Norm Cash's two-run belt in the seventh got the Tigers into extra innings.

After slashing singles in the fifth, seventh, ninth and 11th, Northrup followed two strike outs and Cash's single off George Lauzerique, 3-2, in the 13th with his drive off a 3-0 pitch over the right field wall. No. 18 this season.

Aaron Belts Two Home Runs, Totals 546

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Never look back," says Satchel Paige, "something or somebody may be gaining on you."

It's a problem Hank Aaron doesn't have. He can peek back all he wants because the only guy doing any gaining is Henry himself.

The Atlanta slugger unloaded two more home runs Thursday night, including the 12th grand slam of his career, leading the Braves to an 8-2 romp over Pittsburgh. The two homers gave him 36 this year and 546 for his career—third on the all-time list behind Babe Ruth's 714 and Willie Mays' 598.

Aaron has gained 25 homers on Mays this season. Willie started the year 77 ahead of Henry, 587 to 510 but now the margin is down to 52.

Aaron is 545 homers ahead of Steve Huntz, St. Louis' rookie infielder, who hit his first major league homer in the 10th inning to give the Cardinals a 2-1 decision over Houston.

In other National League games Thursday, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 4-3, Chicago dropped Cincinnati 3-1 and Montreal ripped Los Angeles 9-5. New York and San Diego were off.

Aaron got the Braves off to front quickly with a two-run homer in the first inning after Tony Gonzalez had walked. Atlanta was leading 4-1 in the

Holiday Race Card Starts Friday At Scioto Downs

New pacing and trotting talent enrich the gigantic three-night holiday racing program at Scioto Downs, starting Friday night with the $6,000 Invitational Trot, the $6,000 Invitational Pace on Saturday and a solid nine race card on Monday, Labor Day night with post time at 8 p.m.

Six sizzling trotters will vie for the winner's share of the $6,000 purse Friday night in the Invitational trot and the pre-race favorites role will be up for grabs between the national season champion aged trotting mare, Lady Berry, the former aged trotting champ, Stormedor and the former national season champion aged trotting gelding, Steamin Missile.

Lady Berry, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of Columbus, is returning to her top form of a month and half ago when she set the national mark in 2:01. Last week, the Dick Hackett trained roan finished a step behind Lil Rodney and was clocked in 2:02.3.

Stormedor, owned by Ronald Fox of Wilmington, Ohio, returns to Scioto after two victorious starts at Latonia in 2:04.3 and 2:02.3. Scheduled to be driven Friday night by Omar Hiteman, Stormedor took her record of 2:01.1 at Scioto in early July.

STEAMIN Missile won the invitational in 2:02.3 on Aug. 1 — then got sick. He qualified for the judges in 2:08.1 last week and last Friday night made a break, but still clocked in 2:03.

Lynn Lee has won in 2:03.3 this year and the two new starters in this week's invitational are Reid's Pick, a 2:04.3 winner at Scioto and Crown Prince with Charles Mellen in the sulky with a mile mark of 2:02.1 at Latonia.

Last Saturday night's ten race program has been called the

Coast Loop Short Of Quarterbacks

By KEN ALTYA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — More than 100 starters from last season are sprinkled among the eight Atlantic Coast Conference football teams—but only two are quarterbacks.

That statistic underscores a major problem confronting a majority of the coaches as they prepare for the 17th ACC season. The only quarterbacks of proven ability are Leo Hart of Duke and Tommy Suggs of South Carolina.

Hart was No. 6 nationally on total offense with 2,340 yards as he accounted for 14 of 34 school and conference records. Coach

Tom Harp, never better than 5-5 in three years at Duke, calls Hart "the best quarterback I've ever coached" and is looking for him and his talented receivers, more good running backs and "a whole lot more speed" to make Duke a factor in the race.

Harp's chief chore is filling spots in the interior offensive and defensive lines.

It's been 10 years since South Carolina won as many as six games, but Coach Paul Dietzel starts his fourth year with high hopes for the Gamecocks. The prize among 30 lettermen, 17 starters, is the stubby Suggs. The 5-foot-9, 180 pounder re-

Coffee Table Is Breakthrough
CHICAGO (AP) — A coffee table with spray-on graphite-based coating on its glass top can be plugged into regular electrical wall outlets for cooking food or keeping it warm.

The unit was created by Acheson Colloids Company, Port Huron, Mich., inventor of the coating, to demonstrate how it can be used in residential heating, trailer-truck heating units, and other consumer industrial applications.

The company said the sprayed circular "burners" represent a startling breakthrough in conducting electricity and generating heat.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The possibility of seeing three of football's finest runners — O. J. Simpson, Gale Sayers, and Leroy Kelly — in the same night is expected to draw a record crowd of over 85,000 to Municipal Stadium here Saturday night.

The occasion is the eighth annual pro football exhibition doubleheader, with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League meeting the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League in the 6:30 p.m. opener.

The 9:30 p.m. nightcap finds the Cleveland Browns and Green Bay Packers, both of the NFL, squaring off.

Simpson, the Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Southern California and the No. 1 pick in the college draft, is expected to see heavy action against the Bears. He signed his contract late and has seen only limited action in two games, running nine times for 44 yards, catching three passes for 45 yards, and returning two kicks for 35 yards.

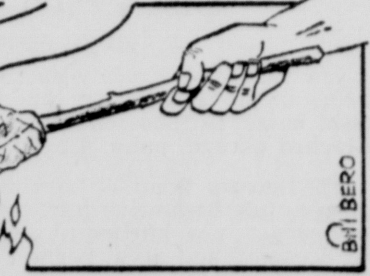

The Bears' Sayers and the Browns' Kelly have dueled for the NFL's rushing title for the past three seasons. Sayers won in 1966 with 1,141 yards to 1,231 for Kelly, but Kelly beat Sayers 1,202 yards to 972 in 1967.

Sayers had compiled 836 yards rushing last season before being sidelined by a knee injury. Kelly won the title with 1,239 yards.

The Packers have four veteran runners in Donny Anderson, the league's ninth best rusher last year, and Jim Grabowski, Travis Williams and Chuck Mercein.

Head Coach Phil Bengston, however, is expected to take a long look at a couple of rookies, Dave Hampton of Wyoming and Jerry Williams of Purdue, with Hampton scheduled to start.

Holiday Race Card Starts Friday At Scioto Downs

New pacing and trotting talent enrich the gigantic three-night holiday racing program at Scioto Downs, starting Friday night with the $6,000 Invitational Trot, the $6,000 Invitational Pace on Saturday and a solid nine race card on Monday, Labor Day night with post time at 8 p.m.

Six sizzling trotters will vie for the winner's share of the $6,000 purse Friday night in the Invitational trot and the pre-race favorites role will be up for grabs between the national season champion aged trotting mare, Lady Berry, the former aged trotting champ, Stormedor, and the former national season champion aged trotting gelding, Steamin Missile.

Lady Berry, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of Columbus, is returning to her top form of a month and half ago when she set the national mark in 2:01. Last week, the Dick Hackett reined roan finished a step behind Lil Rodney and was clocked in 2:02.3.

Stormedor, owned by Ronald Fox of Wilmington, Ohio, returns to Scioto after two victorious starts at Latonia in 2:04.3 and 2:02.3. Scheduled to be driven Friday night by Omar Hiteman, Stormedor took her record of 2:01.1 at Scioto in early July.

STEAMIN Missile won the invitational in 2:02.3 on Aug. 1 — then got sick. He qualified for the judges in 2:06.1 last week and last Friday night made a break, but still clocked in 2:03.

Lynn Lee has won in 2:03.3 this year and the two new starters in this week's Invitational are Reid's Pick, a 2:04.3 winner at Scioto and Crown Prince with Charles Mellen in the sulky with a mile mark of 2:02.1 at Latonia.

Last Saturday night's ten race program has been called the finest ever staged at the suburban Columbus night harness racing spa. But Scioto's Director of Racing, John Phillips states this Saturday's ten race pacing extravaganza is far superior to any he has ever staged.

Eight talent-packed pacers will move in back of the starting gate in the $6,000 Invitational Pace. By post position they are Scotty S., a 3-year-old son of Scotch Prince who scored in 2:02.1 at Latonia last week; Burt Wilson who was second by a nose to Trim Lil in 2:01 at Latonia last week; Bossman Lobell, the 2:01.3 winner at Roosevelt Raceway two weeks ago and who finished second to Lightning Wave in last week's Scarlet and Gray Cup at Scioto.

Bill Car Lith, the powerful aged pacer from the Car Lith stable with a mile mark of 2:00.3; the national season champion 3-year-old pacing filly, Tiger Lily Lobell from the Curly Smart Stable with a record of 2:00; All Time from the Earl Bowman Stable with a record of 1:57.4 taken in a time trial at Lexington last fall and win record of 2:01.4 at Scioto this year. Last week's sensational invitational winner, Beaus Rose, the track record holder from Latonia with a mile mark of 1:59.4.

The newcomer to this week's invitational is Chid's Boy, who set the world of harness racing on its ear last week with a crushing victory in 2:01 at Northfield Park.

Saturday night's co-featured $3,500 Preferred Pace could well be better than the star-studded Invitational. Nine entries will be sent postward with anyone of the nine capable of a visumatic timer busting effort. The field includes About Time, Bow's Brother, Chief Worthy, Darn Vita, Don Thorpe, Irish Miracle, Kabulo, Miss Red Lion and Spicy Dream.

Coast Loop Short Of Quarterbacks

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — More than 100 starters from last season are sprinkled among the eight Atlantic Coast Conference football teams—but only two are quarterbacks.

That statistic underscores a major problem confronting a majority of the coaches as they prepare for the 17th ACC season. The only quarterbacks of proven ability are Leo Hart of Duke and Tommy Suggs of South Carolina.

Hart was No. 6 nationally on total offense with 2,340 yards as he accounted for 14 of 34 school and conference records. Coach

Tom Harp, never better than 5-5 in three years at Duke, calls Hart "the best quarterback I've ever coached" and is looking for him and his talented receivers, more good running backs and "a whole lot more speed" to make Duke a factor in the race.

Harp's chief chore is filling spots in the interior offensive and defensive lines.

It's been 10 years since South Carolina won as many as six games, but Coach Paul Dietzel starts his fourth year with high hopes for the Gamecocks. The prize among 30 lettermen, 17 starters, is the stubby Suggs. The 5-foot-9, 180 pounder re-wrote the school record book last year, passing for 1,544 yards and 13 touchdowns. Included were five TDs against Virginia and 324 passing yards against Florida State.

Injuries hampered senior fullback Warren Muir and split end Fred Zeigler last year, but they're whole again. Inexperience at middle guard and in the defensive backfield are cause for concern.

Earle Edwards has finished 1-2 eight times in 15 years at North Carolina State. In the last six years he hasn't been worse than second, winning two titles outright and tying for two more.

Ron Carpenter, a 250-pound senior tackle, heads a veteran defensive team that Edwards says will have to balance the Wolfpack losses on offense. Junior Darrell Moody, who was in on only 52 plays as a backup man last year, is the quarterback. The red-shirted 1967 freshman team will fill some holes, most pressing of which are at offensive and defensive end, cornerback, fullback and center.

Clemson, operating on an early calendar, is in the second week of practice, but Coach Frank Howard still hasn't named a No. 1 quarterback. Starting his 30th year as Tiger boss, Howard has such offensive gems as fullback Ray Yauger and flanker Charlie Waters, but four untried hands are scrambling for the quarterback job. The intrio offensive line also lacks experience.

Bill Dooley begins his third year with a 5-15 record at North Carolina. He says his Tar Hills will be "improved and exciting" but adds that the squad has only seven seniors. Seven offensive starters must be replaced, including quarterback where junior Ricky Lanier and three sophomores are being tested.

Virginia's 7-3 record last season was the Cavaliers' best in 16 years, but Coach George Blackburn has a major rebuilding job. Seven defensive starters are back, but only three

Coffee Table Is Breakthrough
CHICAGO (AP) — A coffee table with spray-on graphite-based coating on its glass top can be plugged into regular electrical wall outlets for cooking food or keeping it warm.

The unit was created by Acheson Colloids Company, Port Huron, Mich., inventor of the coating, to demonstrate how it can be used in residential heating, trailer-truck heating units, and other consumer industrial applications.

The company said the sprayed circular "burners" represent a startling breakthrough in conducting electricity and generating heat.

Teacher Troubles Area HEW May Delay School Office Explains SS Benefits

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
School bells may not be ringing on time for thousands of children this fall, as teachers in several communities threaten strikes or other job action.

Much of the trouble is in the Midwest.

Chicago's 19,000 teachers vote Tuesday on whether to strike at the opening of classes Wednesday. The maintenance workers in the 600-school system already voted to walk out.

At issue is whether the city will honor pay raises promised to settle a two-day strike last May. The school board, pleading a lack of funds, adopted a supplementary budget last week providing money for half the promised increases.

The executive director of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Oscar Weil, said Thursday as many as 15 school districts in the state could be struck when classes open next week.

He said 600 elementary school teachers in Joliet vote Sept. 2 on a contract and five Chicago suburbs are still negotiating new contracts. Almost 35,000 students would be affected in Joliet and the five suburbs.

One Illinois city already was hit by a strike. Teachers in Granite City walked out Wednesday, which was to have been opening day for 15,000 students. The dispute is over salaries.

In La Salle, Ill., the Tuesday opening of school was delayed by a strike by 80 of 110 teachers at LaSalle-Peru Town High School. Agreement was reached Wednesday and schools were to open today. At issue was the expiration date of the teachers' contract.

A union representing 100 of 200 teachers at two campuses of Waukegan Town High School rejected Thursday the board of education's latest wage offer. School is scheduled to open next Wednesday.

Indiana has two school strikes under way. Although classes don't start officially in most schools until Sept. 2, the walk-out has affected preschool workshops.

In Hammond, the 4,200-member Teachers Association went on strike and set up pickets Aug. 15 in a salary dispute, delaying the opening of school football practice. Coaches were later allowed to start practice, with the understanding that they were on strike.

The 200 teachers of the Lake Central School Corp. in the Schererville-St. John area south of Gary set up picket lines

Thursday because the school board refused to establish a group contract.

In Michigan, 171 of the state's more than 500 school districts were without contracts late Thursday. Affected are 666,000 students and 28,000 teachers. Issues in question include wages, class size, binding arbitration and an agency shop concept. Some schools are to open Tuesday, others Wednesday.

William C. Kahl, state school superintendent in Wisconsin, said four school districts were without contracts. He said school districts where classes are delayed past Sept. 19 by strikes face a loss of some state aid. School was scheduled to open this week and next in Wisconsin.

In the East, teachers in Anne Arundel County in Maryland have hinted at job action in a salary dispute. Last spring, teachers boycotted two days of classes to attend mass meetings and they warn they may do the same this fall. The teachers say funds negotiated by their representatives and the school board have been cut by the county council, constituting a breach of agreement.

In Newark, N.J., the teachers' association is seeking a pay increase which was approved by the board of education, but turned down by the board of estimates.

In Wilmington, Del. teachers will vote on a two-year contract Sept. 2, the day schools reopen. The pact, tentatively approved Thursday by union negotiators, provides for a starting salary of more than $7,000 and a duty-free 45-minute lunch period.

Democrats Pay Vote Assessment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Montgomery County Democrats paid up in full Thursday their one-cent-per-vote assessment to the party coffer under a new fund raising plan.

Shaw A. Ferguson of Brookville, Democratic candidate for state auditor, presented a $2,099 check to Paul F. Ward, chairman of the party's finance committee.

Ferguson said Montgomery is the first county to pay its share in full. Under the plan, each county party organization will contribute one cent for each vote cast in the 1968 general election.

in the case of 30 Mississippi school districts last Monday. Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerri Leonard, head of Justice's civil rights division, asked a federal court to delay a plan—which he had supported only three weeks earlier—for complete desegregation of the districts.

This so upset civil rights division lawyers that Leonard had to make a rare court appearance to argue the case himself since none of his staff would handle the task.

The next day, division attorneys began an unprecedented campaign to seek assurance from administration officials that desegregation would be vigorously enforced. They implied that if their requests were not granted they might resign en masse.

The episode marked the final blow to some government lawyers, who claim Mitchell refused to allow some suits to be filed because of political considerations.

3 Injured In 2-Car Accident

Three persons received injuries in a two-car accident at the junction of State Route 23 and State Route 316 at 7:55 a.m. Friday in South Bloomfield.

South Bloomfield Marshall Paul Conn reported that a car driven by Mrs. Connie Archer was headed west on Route 316 when she failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Route 23.

A car driven by Benny Erdery, Grundy, Va., was headed south on Route 23 when the Archer car slid into it. Marshall Conn stated that Mrs. Archer slid 74 feet before striking the Erdery car.

Mrs. Archer was taken to Berger Hospital suffering from small lacerations to the side of her head, contusions to her back, right thigh and right foot, and abrasions.

Erdery complained of pains in his chest, ribs and knees. Erdery's wife suffered small lacerations on her face and contusions to her head, nose and both knees.

Mrs. Archer was cited for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Convicted Slayer's Brother Shot Down

CINCINNATI (AP)—Larry Laskey, 30, brother of convicted slayer Postel Laskey, was found shot to death today in the hallway of an apartment at the northwest edge of the downtown district.

Carol Este, 18, arrested about an hour and a half after the body was found, was charged with first degree manslaughter.

Thursdays from 8:45 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Editor Speaks As 1,889 Get OSU Degrees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mark Ethridge, Jr., editor of the Detroit Free Press, welcomed 1,889 new graduates of The Ohio State University to the Establishment today. He counseled them to shake it up with "common sense as well as erudition."

Degrees in the summer commencement went to students from 86 Ohio counties, 45 states and 33 foreign countries.

Pickaway County had nine graduates at the university. They included Kelly L. Owens, BS in Agriculture; Jeffrey Bigam, BS in Education; Paul M. Dunkle, Master of Arts; Sandra Weaver Hodge, Master of Arts; Brenda M. Johnson, BS in Education; Evelyn Roush Ralston, Master of Arts; Sylvia White Reiss, Master of Arts; Peggy Clark Sheets, Master of Arts; and Marsha Reynolds Clark, BS in Business Administration.

Ethridge noted in his commencement address that this nation was on the brink of a commitment no other nation in history has ever made—to eliminate hunger, poverty, and deprivation, and to make possible a decent life for all men.

But, he said, alienation from one another may cause us to fall short of that goal. He observed that action brings reaction, that violence begets violence, and that irrationality and intemperance breed more of the same.

For these reasons Ethridge urged moderation and advised the young to make a greater effort to find the solutions they demand and the old to stop avoiding the press of reality.

Ethridge cited the example of Vietnam as what happens when people stop looking for answers and decide to become part of the problem. He claimed innovative solution-seeking has been stifled by a paranoid fear of communism and a naive assumption that military power could resolve any issue.

Th great tragedy, he feared, would be that we would learn nothing from all this sacrifice, that we would continue to "think the absurd to prevent the inconceivable," that we would continue to drain every extra penny of our treasure to subsidize an outdated concept of life on this planet.

There are new facts for a new age, he declared. Those new facts are that there cannot be any more big wars, that man-made boundaries are obsolete, and that we are not only our brother's keeper but our brother's brother."

Top scholar among the graduates was Thomas L. Niemeyer of Sidney who had a grade average of 3.987 out of a possible 4.0.

4 Men Bound To Grand Jury

Four men were bound over to the grand jury Thursday by Judge Sterling Lamb.

David Lee Kneec, 341 E. Mound St., Fred Leroy Wooten, 225 Third Ave., and John Michael Manson, Route 4, pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering 23 Auto Parts with intent to steal. All three were placed under $1,500 bond.

Ernest O. Ziegler, Columbus, was bound over to the grand jury under a $500 bond for stealing an engine valued at $75.

Barbecue Set By Pickaway Farm Bureau

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau Federation announced today that plans have been completed for a summer barbecue to be held at the 4-H and Grange Building 6 to 7 p.m. Thursday.

Nelson Stevens, local organization director, said this event is planned as a family fun night with some unusual entertainment and an excellent speaker.

The barbecue is open to the public and not restricted to Farm Bureau members. "A unique feature will be that participants will have their choice of barbecued chicken or barbecued pork chops, plus one of the last opportunities to enjoy home-grown sweet corn," Stevens said.

This will be an informative meeting for area farmers. The speaker will be Howard Waters, Midwest Area Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Department. Waters is responsible for the ASC program in seven midwestern states. He will speak on changes in the ASC program.

Tickets for this event may be purchased at the Farm Bureau office on E. Main or from any Farm Bureau Board member, Women's Committee member and some Youth Council members.

A limited number will be sold at the door.

Blue. . . Beautiful

DETROIT (AP)—In the hope of signing up more blacks, Detroit's Police Department is proclaiming that "Blue Is Beautiful."

The department launched a stepped-up drive for new recruits this week as it formally dedicated a new recruiting headquarters in the inner city.

The two-story building is three blocks from 12th Street, where Detroit's 1967 race riot began.

Two police lieutenants, two sergeants, 10 mobile task force patrolmen recruiters and 14 patrolmen-investigators are assigned to the recruiting unit.

Some 40 per cent of Detroit's population is Negro, but only about 10 per cent of the police force is black.

Police officials emphasize that any qualified applicants—white or black—can find a place on the 4,000-man force. But they concede that the new program seeks a higher proportion of black recruits.

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen said in an interview there is no Negro quota for the program and no ratio between the number of whites and black recruits.

"The color is blue—police blue—but we're encouraging and trying to get the blacks in."

"The trouble is a lot of them aren't interested because they're afraid of being called 'Uncle Toms,' or 'pigs,' or joining a so-called racist, oppressive police force. . . . And jobs are easier in industry."

Grain Elevator Manager Retires

Woodlyn Grain Co. manager, Smith Lingo Jr., of Route 2, Williamsport, announced the retirement of his 30-year post last Saturday. The grain company, located south of the village of Williamsport, is owned by John Dunlap Jr.

Lingo commenced his employment at the elevator 42 years ago. It was then owned by Clark Hunsicker and it was under this ownership that Lingo was named manager about 30 years ago. He continued in that capacity after the grain company was sold three years ago.

Presently, no successor has been named to the position.

Teacher Troubles Area HEW May Delay School Office Explains SS Benefits

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School bells may not be ringing on time for thousands of children this fall, as teachers in several communities threaten strikes or other job action.

Much of the trouble is in the Midwest.

Chicago's 19,000 teachers vote Tuesday on whether to strike at the opening of classes Wednesday. The maintenance workers in the 600-school system already voted to walk out.

At issue is whether the city will honor pay raises promised to settle a two-day strike last May. The school board, pleading a lack of funds, adopted a supplementary budget last week providing money for half the promised increases.

The executive director of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Oscar Weil, said Thursday as many as 15 school districts in the state could be struck when classes open next week.

He said 600 elementary school teachers in Joliet vote Sept. 2 on a contract and five Chicago suburbs are still negotiating new contracts. Almost 35,000 students would be affected in Joliet and the five suburbs.

One Illinois city already was hit by a strike. Teachers in Granite City walked out Wednesday, which was to have been opening day for 15,000 students. The dispute is over salaries.

In La Salle, Ill., the Tuesday opening of school was delayed by a strike by 80 of 110 teachers at LaSalle-Peru Town High School. Agreement was reached Wednesday and schools were to open today. At issue was the expiration date of the teachers' contract.

A union representing 100 of 200 teachers at two campuses of Waukegan Town High School rejected Thursday the board of education's latest wage offer. School is scheduled to open next Wednesday.

Indiana has two school strikes under way. Although classes don't start officially in most schools until Sept. 2, the walk-out has affected preschool workshops.

In Hammond, the 4,200-member Teachers Association went on strike and set up pickets Aug. 15 in a salary dispute, delaying the opening of school football practice. Coaches were later allowed to start practice, with the understanding that they were on strike.

The 200 teachers of the Lake Central School Corp., in the Schererville-St. John area south of Gary set up picket lines

Thursday because the school board refused to establish a group contract.

In Michigan, 171 of the state's more than 500 school districts were without contracts late Thursday. Affected are 666,000 students and 28,000 teachers. Issues in question include wages, class size, binding arbitration and an agency shop concept. Some schools are to open Tuesday, others Wednesday.

William C. Kahl, state school superintendent in Wisconsin, said four school districts were without contracts. He said school districts where classes are delayed past Sept. 19 by strikes face a loss of some state aid. School was scheduled to open this week and next in Wisconsin.

In the East, teachers in Anne Arundel County in Maryland have hinted at job action in a salary dispute. Last spring, teachers boycotted two days of classes to attend mass meetings and they warn they may do the same this fall. The teachers say funds negotiated by their representatives and the school board have been cut by the county council, constituting a breach of agreement.

In Newark, N.J., the teachers' association is seeking a pay increase which was approved by the board of education, but turned down by the board of estimates.

In Wilmington, Del. teachers will vote on a two-year contract Sept. 2, the day schools reopen. The pact, tentatively approved Thursday by union negotiators, provides for a starting salary of more than $7,000 and a duty-free 45-minute lunch period.

Democrats Pay Vote Assessment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Montgomery County Democrats paid up in full Thursday their one-cent-per-vote assessment to the party coffers under a new fund raising plan.

Shaw A. Ferguson of Brookville, Democratic candidate for state auditor, presented a $2,099 check to Paul F. Ward, chairman of the party's finance committee.

Ferguson said Montgomery is the first county to pay its share in full. Under the plan, each county party organization will contribute one cent for each vote cast in the 1968 general election.

Nixon . . .

Ast. Atty. Gen. Jerri Leonard, head of Justice's civil rights division, asked a federal court to delay a plan—which he had supported only three weeks earlier—for complete desegregation of the districts.

This so upset civil rights division lawyers that Leonard had to make a rare court appearance to argue the case himself since none of his staff would handle the task.

The next day, division attorneys began an unprecedented campaign to seek assurance from administration officials that desegregation would be vigorously enforced. They implied that if their requests were not granted they might resign en masse.

The episode marked the final blow to some government lawyers, who claim Mitchell refused to allow some suits to be filed because of political considerations.

3 Injured In 2-Car Accident

Three persons received injuries in a two car accident at the junction of State Route 23 and State Route 316 at 7:55 a.m. Friday in South Bloomfield.

South Bloomfield Marshall Paul Conn reported that a car driven by Mrs. Connie Archer was headed west on Route 316 when she failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Route 23.

A car driven by Benny Erdery, Grundy, Va., was headed south on Route 23 when the Archer car slid into it.

Marshall Conn stated that Mrs. Archer slid 74 feet before striking the Erdery car.

Mrs. Archer was taken to Berger Hospital suffering from small lacerations to the side of her head, contusions to her back, right thigh and right foot, and abrasions.

Erdery complained of pains in his chest, ribs and knees.

Erdery's wife suffered small lacerations to her face and contusions to her head, nose and both knees.

Mrs. Archer was cited for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Editor Speaks As 1,889 Get OSU Degrees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mark Ethridge, Jr., editor of the Detroit Free Press, welcomed 1,889 new graduates of The Ohio State University to the Establishment today. He counseled them to shake it up with "common sense as well as erudition."

Degrees in the summer commencement went to students from 86 Ohio counties, 45 states and 33 foreign countries.

Pickaway County had nine graduates at the university. They included Kelly L. Owens, BS in Agriculture; Jeffrey Bigam, BS in Education; Paul M. Dunkle, Master of Arts; Sandra Weaver Hodge, Master of Arts; Brenda M. Johnson, BS in Education; Evelyn Roush Ralston, Master of Arts; Sylvia White Reiss, Master of Arts; Peggy Clark Sheets, Master of Arts; and Marsha Reynolds Clark, BS in Business Administration.

Ethridge noted in his commencement address that this nation was on the brink of a commitment no other nation in history has ever made—to eliminate hunger, poverty, and deprivation, and to make possible a decent life for all men.

But, he said, alienation from one another may cause us to fall short of that goal. He observed that action brings reaction, that violence begets violence, and that irrationality and intemperance breed more of the same.

For these reasons Ethridge urged moderation and advised the young to make a greater effort to find the solutions they demand and the old to stop avoiding the press of reality.

Ethridge cited the example of Vietnam as what happens when people stop looking for answers and decide to become part of the problem. He claimed innovative solution-seeking has been stifled by a paranoid fear of communism and a naive assumption that military power could resolve any issue.

Th great tragedy, he feared, would be that we would learn nothing from all this sacrifice, that we would continue to "think the absurd to prevent the inconceivable," that we would continue to drain every extra penny of our treasure to subsidize an outdated concept of life on this planet.

There are new facts for a new age, he declared. Those new facts are that there cannot be any more big wars, that man-made boundaries are obsolete, and that we are not only our brother's keeper but our brother's brother.

Top scholar among the graduates was Thomas L. Niemeyer of Sidney who had a grade average of 3.987 out of a possible 4.0.

Ernest O. Ziegler, Columbus, was bound over to the grand jury under a $500 bond for stealing an engine valued at $75.
